Dear Stacy,

It's been really great knowing you and I'm sad that you're leaving. But I know you're glad to be leaving. I hope you have fun in life

Memories, whether joyous or woebegone, not only make individuals unique but also make families special. Our school family created many great memories this past year.

The human events that passed between friends as well as the glorious occasions such as the Freshmen Orientation, early dismissals, Spirit Week, long lunches, and graduation, plus the not so glorious occasions such as the first day of school, detention and finals, all sparked precious and unforgettable memories. As Suzanne Sales, '89, pointed out, "This was my first year at HNH and I've already collected some wonderful memories."

May their appearance in MGM lead them to success and stardom in life.

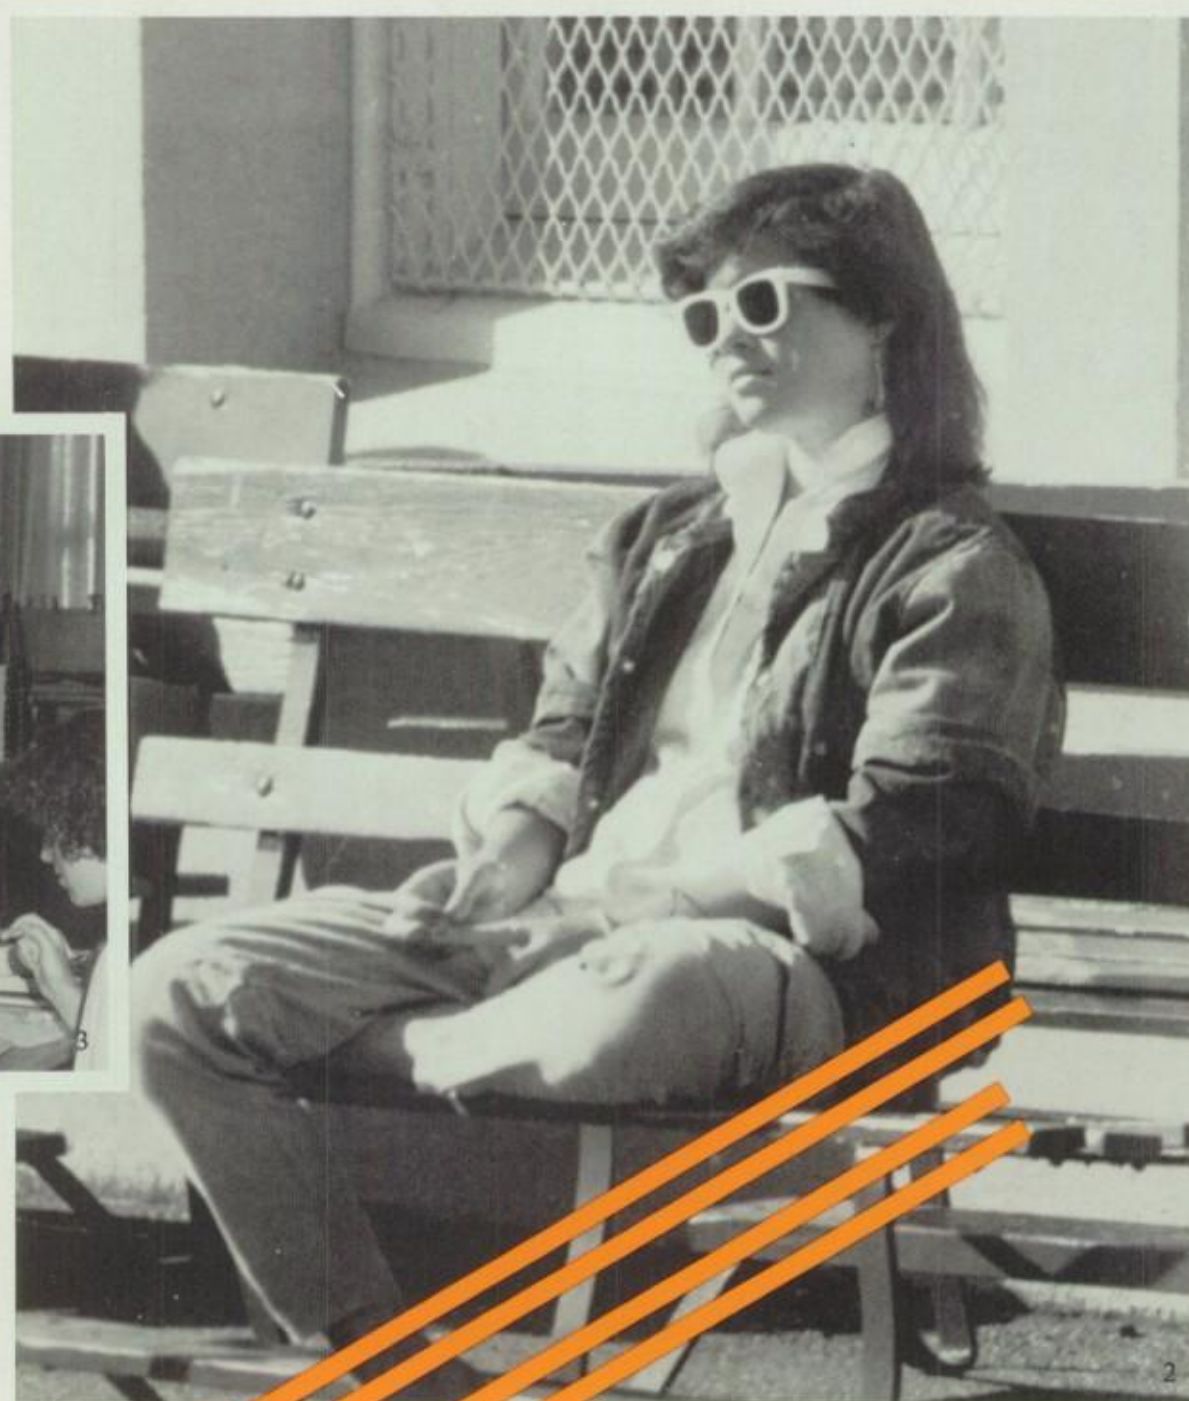

The Way We Were ... Sept.'s Song

It was a familiar scene for most: old friends and old teachers, but a new kind of excitement made the year's Registration/Orientation something special.

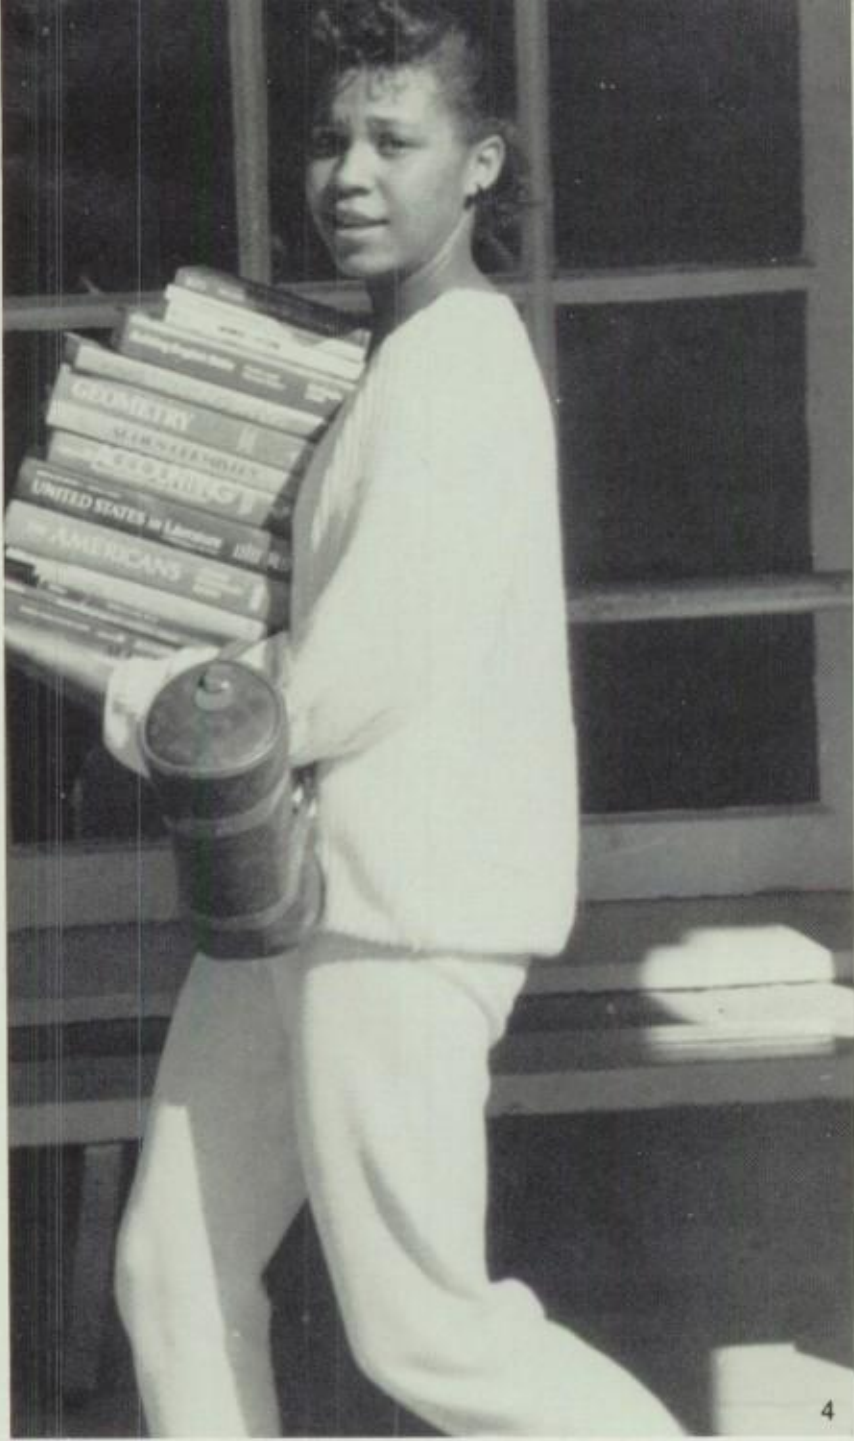

It was easy to spot the Freshmen; they looked confused. The Sophomores were happy to be in their second year, and the Juniors couldn't believe that they were upperclassmen. But ah, the grand Seniors! They had the largest smiles.

While most dragged new books back to their lockers, Freshmen got acquainted in the auditorium. Afterwards they had outdoor games followed by a hot dog lunch. They were given the grand tour before getting their new pile of books. Most Freshmen weren't aware that their schedule included weightlifting.

Reactions to the school year's kick off were varied. Dwyla Gordon, '89, quickly replied, "I was really excited about it." Pamela Soon, '88, observed that "It was more hectic than last year."

1. Inez Lawson, and Ericka Morgan, '88, are examining their new books, while Cecily Allmon, and Monique Morris, '88 look on. 2. Dreaming of the summer, Andre-Ana Bulgo '88, relaxes. 3. Nancy Lucas, Kristi Rogers and Felicia Schupp, '87, help new students with their books while Ms. Rubenstein tallies the totals. 4. Elaine Williams, '87 experiences the pain of being an upperclassman. 5. Sammie Needham, '87 and Nikki Traylor, '88, have a snack. 6. The scene—LINES! 7. Meredith Norton and Tanya Brauer discuss summer.

As summer inevitably ended and school began, some creative students earnestly tried to disguise their plain metal lockers with something more imaginative. From their efforts we have some artistic 'masterpieces'.

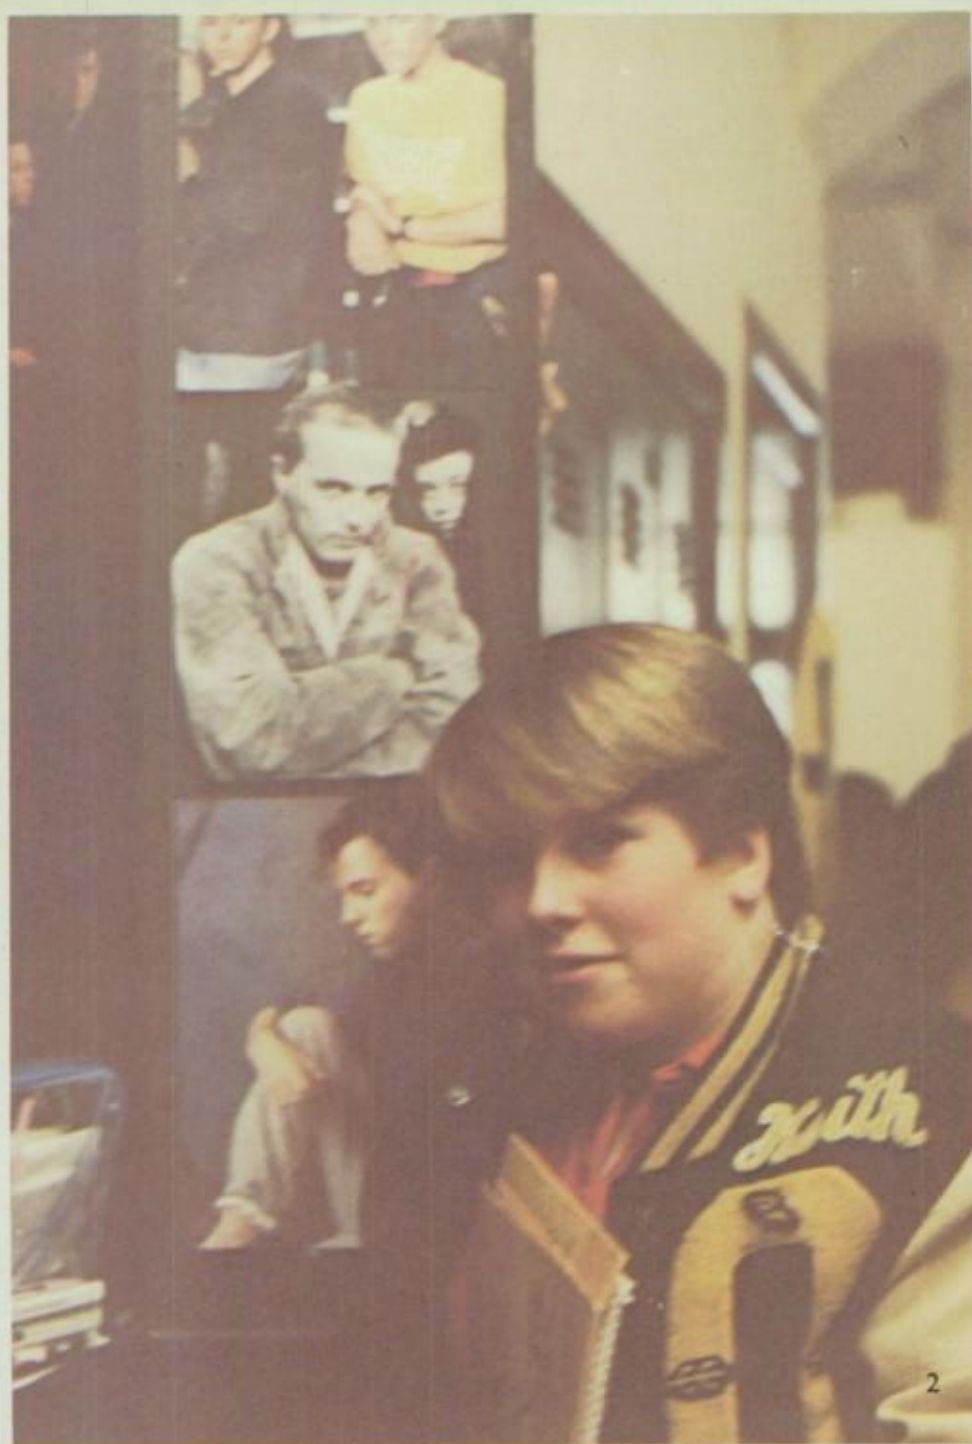

When asked what inspired these interior (locker) decorators, Steffanie White, '89, replied, "The lockers were so ugly and GREEN, and I had to look at my favorite people everyday." Margot Forneret, '88, and Michelle Smith, '88, added that "decked out" lockers were more interesting to look at than the thick books also in there. According to Michelle, the lockers were "organized in a neat trendy way."

Some lockers were colorfully wallpapered, others were adorned with stuffed animals. Some lovestruck girls even hung pictures of their boyfriends on locker doors. Most popular were the collages of teenage heartthrobs.

Studying occupied a lot of time for many students. The halls provided a place to study, especially for Freshmen who were away from the hustle and bustle. They used the hall to study, read, tutor, or just talk with friends.

Stacey,

He in the mix

On Oct. 3, 1985, the first day of the California State Lottery, while a lucky few claimed their $5,000 prize, the entire student body filed out on to the back campus for a picture that would make history. Despite sweltering heat and malfunctioning cameras, Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors lined up more than 300 bodies to spell out HNH. Never mind whose idea it was! Here you are, the many faces of Holy Names.

PERIOD OF ADJUSTMENT WELCOME WEEK

Rise and shine campers! Welcome back to another year in the pink prison at camp HNH!

said Kristie Wollitz, '86, over the P.A. system, as she opened the first day of Welcome Week! On Wednesday, the second day of school, everyone got into the spirit and wore their sunglasses for a "Day in the Shade". Thursday was class color day and the first rally, which was run by the spirit commissioner, Laurie Wong and her committee Kim Edwards, Cheryl

Hoffman, '86, Jenell Thompson, and Trina Dumas, '87. The Freshmen, who practiced their cheers at orientation, surprised everyone by how well they did. "They were better than the Seniors," said Kristen Geddry, '87. "It was the best rally I've had in four years," said Jennifer Arndt, '86. Friday at 2:30, students let off balloons which symbolized their hopes and dreams for the year. That night was the first dance of the year: The Beatch Party. Many came in shorts and surfer clothes. People were so excited about the dance that the tickets sold out ½ hour after the doors opened! Welcome Week inspired Trenise Reed, '87, to say "This is going to be a live year!!"

1. Smiling for the camera, Julia Melancon, '86, and Toya Davis, '88, wait for their rides.
2. "Freshmen in the balcony, let us hear you shout" The class of '89 surprises everyone.
3. "Ouch, that hurts!" the Freshmen get to know each other better.
4. New kids on campus, Sarah Ranieri, and Karla Wolf, '88, spend lunch getting better acquainted.
5. All decked out in their beach attire, Tracy Holmes, '87, and her date Jon Rei relax at the Beach Party.

2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY

No Frames No Boundaries

Destination: 21st Century

“I loved the video; I’m crazy about space.” stated Natasha Hansen, '87, in response to the video introducing the theme: no frames, no boundaries, we are one. It was not an easy theme to understand at first, but students incorporated it into daily life almost immediately. Throughout the year, they refrained from building boundaries, but instead allowed themselves to be open, to experience life, and to share that experience with others.

The multi-ethnic student body, with students from Africa, Malaysia, China, and Korea, was unique to Holy Names, and it demonstrated the theme well. No one was excluded because of her race, religion, or national origin. Everyone was loved and appreciated for who she was, and the talents she possessed and shared with others.

The desire and commitment to gaining a quality education became another important way of expressing our theme. “Although most schools put limitations on what you can do, at HNH, you can achieve almost everything.” said Clare Focha, '87. Statements like “I can’t” or “I won’t” became “I can” and “I will” as students refused to build boundaries preventing them from achieving their goals.

1. We’re all sisters at Holy Names, Cynthia Coogler, '87, welcomes her friends with open arms.

2. Science enables us to break down boundaries as Michelle Smith, '88, views cells under a microscope.

3. No frames, no boundaries, we are all an important part of a whole at H.N.H.

4. Doors are always open for everyone, discovers Minh Ngoc Luu, '88.

Count your blessings

1. Feeling for the devastated in Mexico, Nicole Berg, '88, contributes generously during the offertory.
2. "Peace be with you," Julie Yu and Marrienne Avila, '86, begin their last year together with a big hug.
3. Many contribute money to the Mexican relief fund in which a total of $241.36 was raised.

On Sept. 24, 1985, the school joined not only as a community, but as a family at the Mass of the Holy Spirit. It was a starting point for the year, a time when we realized our goal as well as our duty to live up to our theme for the school year: no frames, no boundaries, we are one.

Monsignor Moran aided us in asking God to help the people of Mexico, who were devastated by a 7.8 earthquake which left many homeless and without families.

For the Freshmen, this was a new experience. The Sophomores were more united as a class, and the Juniors prayed for a memorable year. For the Seniors, this was a special year. It symbolized the beginning of their last year together.

Tracy Holmes, '87 said, "It gave me time to collect my thoughts and evaluate the school year." Maria Tabada '87, added, "It opened my eyes to the theme."

The unity felt gave us the strength to challenge our goal.

Some of My Favorite Years

“I have so much homework!!” Karen Dabney, '87, expressed the view of many students. However, homework was only one of the many diversities that kept students busy. The phrase “Student Life” encompassed many activities at HNH.

There was no end to the way students spent their free time. School sponsored activities and clubs were popular for some. Others chose to spend their free time off campus, working to earn extra cash or participating in a youth group or choir. Evenings and weekends were often spent at dances, parties, or concerts. More than a few people came back to school with laryngitis after the New Addition and Bruce Springsteen concerts. Said Julie Hackett, '86, “He (Bruce) told the most extraordinary stories.” These are just a few of the many ways students spent their free time. Pastimes varied as did students themselves.

Believe in me

Friendship—the gift that keeps giving

Friends, a word that brought a smile to every face. Friends were very important at HNH. They were the foundation upon which the spirit and strength of Holy Names were built.

Friends could be seen everywhere. Whether in pairs or groups, every student found that special someone to share tears and laughter with. Friendships were special part of everyone's life - something that made the difference between loneliness and happiness. Friendships filled our lives with the courage to take risks and seek out new things. We appreciated our friends for their patience and caring. Around our friends we were never afraid to be ourselves. Friends would hang out together at school, and especially when school got out.

Wherever a smile was present, a friend was close by. Leslie Green, '87, put it best when she said, "Friendships are a special gift we are given so we can share our lives with others."

Angela Butler, Lori Broom, and LaTonya Hill, '86, stop for a minute to "go insane."

Phyllis Major and Kimberly Nichols, '89, try to grab some sun at lunch.

Sandra Vergil, Tracy Stevenson, '86, and Julia Cabrera, '88, fill up on Wendy's hamburgers.

Andi Bulgo, Goretti Heinz, and Jackie Thompson, '88, pause to smile.

Mimi Jenkins, '87, Darcell Purefoy, and Zermaine Thomas, '88, hurriedly finish homework.

Hey Babe,

-Erica

It is a special night, especially for Jackie Deschaine, '86, and her boyfriend. They enjoy dressing up and having a night out on the town.

Felicia Strankman, '88, is in reverie as she dances with her guy to Force M.D.'s ballad, "Tender Love".

Lisa Mittone, '86, and date enjoy themselves as they stop to welcome the photographers.

It started off with a "Beach Party". To the tunes of the Beach Boys and Run DMC, guys and girls danced all night long. The welcome week dance was followed by a series of other successful dances held at Merritt College. Tickets were often sold out before the dance—that's how big it was. HNH dancers and guests were never disappointed. They danced and pranced to such groups as the Miami Sound Machine. With their favorite persons, guys and girls moved to such ballads as Whitney Houston's "You Give Good Love" and Dionne Warwick and Friends' "That's What Friends are For". With themes such as "At The Expo", no one could stop rockin'.

Aside from the regular friday-night dances, there were the formal dances. Since anyone from any grade could attend, the Winter Ball was the biggest formal dance. Due to a fire at the ASUC bookstore, HNH, along with Salesian, St. Mary's and St. Joseph's, Notre Dame, did not have access to the Pauley Ballroom. As a result, the ball was held at the International House on the 11th of January, in the year of our Lord, one-thousand nine-hundred eighty-six.

of human hearts

"The only reason cocaine is such a rage is because people are too dumb or too lazy to roll a joint." This line and many others sparked a smile in many people. The live music provided by Experience was an added treat. But, rather than entertaining, Live Free was designed to be educational, and educational it was!

The week began on Tues. Nov. 5, with a tone-setting assembly consisting of slides, music and narration. Slides coordinated by Sr. Margaret Spiller were unique if not interesting. Music helped students to realize how often lyrics contain several meanings. The narration, written by Mrs. Hawkins, presented all sides of the controversial issue.

On Nov. 7, each student attended two sessions of her choice on the subject of substance abuse. Many learned valuable lessons from such groups as AA, SADD, and OPD. Speakers were as impressed with students as students were with speakers. "I was scared at first, but they were so eager and responsive," stated one such speaker.

Special thanks to Mrs. Hawkins, Sr. Margaret, Mrs. Olney, Angela Ysunza, Kristie Wollitz, Eileen Pippins, Carla Jorden, Amy Sindicic, Bronwyn Nichols, Dolores Ferrero, John Slonaker, Brett Maltbie, Dave Lopez, and Mike DiFrancesco

Students interested in starting a SADD program at HNH eagerly listen to the speakers' advice.

"Live free in '85"

"An alcoholic is someone you don't like who drinks as much as you do," Bronwyn Nichols, '86 speaks at assembly.

Tuning up, Dave Lopez (bass) and Brett Maltbie prepare for Jimi Hendrix's Purple Haze. Bridging his way over troubled water, John Slonaker performs at the Live Free assembly. Jacqueline Thompson and April Lytle, '88 listen attentively in one of the workshops they chose.

The Catered Affair

Junior Ring Ceremony

"It was very classy," commented one teacher. Silence hovered over the student body and faculty as the Class of 1987 entered the auditorium by candlelight to "Ballade Pour Adeline". For the past two years, the Class of 1987 saw the Classes of 1985 and 1986 receive their rings—it was now their turn.

Sister Kathryn Ondreyco congratulated the Junior class and explained to them the importance of receiving the school ring. After the blessing of the rings by Monsignor Moran, each Junior graciously walked onto the stage to receive her precious ring and warmth of congratulations from Sr. Kathryn Ondreyco and Sr. Margaret Spiller. From Sr. Mary Haupt, each Junior received a red rose wrapped in baby's breath and fern. After they were seated, the Juniors listened to an inspiring poem, "The Road Not Taken", read by Mrs. Barnett. Junior class president, Cydia Taylor, then addressed her fellow classmates. To top off the ceremony, the whole student body sang the alma mater. The Juniors then processed out to "The Greatest Love of All". Overjoyed, each Junior started the tedious but memorable task of turning the school ring 87 times. They then enjoyed a wonderful luncheon in the cafeteria which was served by the Freshmen. October 29, 1985 was not easily forgotten. The Class of 1987 were officially upperclassmen.

Kim Caesar, '87, proudly carries her ring, flower, and candle back to her place.

On the count of 3! 1... 2... 3, Juniors blow!

Adrienne Regier, '87, nervously enters the auditorium for one of the biggest events in her high school life.

Carla Jorden, '87, pauses in order to display her ring to the photographer.

Vikki Milburn, '87, gracefully walks down the steps to join her fellow classmates in excitement.

What a laugh!

Some Came Running

Jackie Deschaine, '86, takes time from government class to see what's going on.

Sharon Spier, '86, calculates the number of helium molecules there are in the Goodyear blimp.

Sarah Messer, '86, enjoys her free time from Pascal. By the way, who's Pascal?

Marianne Avila, '86, prepares for a challenging senior year.

To refresh her memory, Michelle Randolph, '86, goes over yesterday's notes.

Academic Honors

Initials, initials. We were flooded with initials. We were familiar with NHS and CSF, but what were PDP and AHSSP? These initials were associated with the world-renowned university, UC Berkeley.

PDP stood for the Professional Development Program. It was mainly aimed at minorities interested in such fields as business, computer science, and chemistry. During a grueling, six-week summer at the UC campus, PDP students attended math classes, English classes, and career classes, which were of their choosing. But PDP was not all hard work, it was fun, too. During the one and a half hour lunch break, students had their fill at various food stands or challenged some faculty members to a game of volleyball. Mary Ann Evia, '87 had this to say about the program, "I've never had so much fun learning before. UC Berkeley has such a beautiful campus that I looked forward to going up there."

AHSSP was the Accelerated High School Student Program. Acceptance into this program automatically gained students acceptance as freshmen at UC Berkeley. The following seniors were accepted into the program: Jackie Deschaine, Sarah Messer, Sharon Spier, and Michelle Randolph.

Every year, Holy Names students have been commended for their outstanding PSAT scores. This past year, Shawn Dawson, Julia Melancon, and Sarah Messer received letters of commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

At a recent professionals convention, PDP students assemble to discuss recent scientific discoveries and applications. Imagine! All this knowledge is in one room.

Front: Marea Battle '87, Sarah Messer '86, Mary Ann Evia '87, Marcella Wright '86, Fatima Washington '86.

The Bandwagon

HNH Clubs and Organizations

ANYWAY

People are unreasonable illogical and self-centered. Love them anyway.

If you do good, people will accuse you of ulterior motives. Do good anyway.

If you are successful you win false friends and true enemies. Succeed anyway.

The good you do today will be forgotten tomorrow. Do good anyway.

Honesty and frankness make you vulnerable. Be honest and frank anyway.

People favor underdogs but follow only top dogs. Fight for some underdogs anyway.

What you spend years building may be destroyed overnight. Build anyway.

People really need help but may attack you if you help them. Help people anyway.

Give the world the best you have and you'll get kicked in the teeth.

Give the world the best you've got anyway.

The student body officers, Liz Varela, '87, Marrienne Avila, Kristie Wollitz and Angela Ysunza, '86, take a rest during the Welcome Dance.

In the frame: Stacey Sledge and Ayoka Givens, '89, get involved in assembly! Even though Shelly Stewart, '86, is participating in Halloween she still has to get her homework done. Cydia Taylor, Tanzanika Carter, Trina Dumas and Amy Sindicie, '87, wait in line to petition to God during mass. Danielle Ica, '88 must have forgotten that there was a volleyball game on Saturday. Angela Butler, '86 must be thinking about all the research she has to do for Model U.N. Mary Campbell, '86, sings away during the first mass.

Here's a familiar scene, the lunch time tutoring sessions, Hsui Lin and Minh Ngoc Luu, '88.

Cheryl Hoffman, '86, displays her spirit.

Le Club de Francais

What's the rush? Tuesdays at lunch people flooded room 403, better known as the "French room". Over the past years, this club has gained prestige for their wonderfully creative French dinners. Kristen Geddry, '87, once commented, "I never know what to expect at the dinners, but I always know that I have fun." The creativity of moderator Debbie Sutter, president Sharon Spier, '86, vice-president Julia Melancon, '86, treasurer Tracy Holmes, '87, secretary Angela Butler, '86, and the other French club members led to many successes, such as the sale of Polar Pears Parisien, throughout the year.

Julie Yu, '86, shows that winning smile that brightened every meeting.

El Club de Español

“ ¡ Estoy aprendiendo hablar español ! ”

The Spanish Club motto should have been, “Ayudamos a otros” (translated, “We help others.”) — for they surely did just that. Every long Wednesday, the members met to discuss ways to reach out to their brothers and sisters in Spanish-speaking nations. They sponsored various nacho sales which satisfied the taste buds of HNH students while benefitting the victims of the catastrophic Mexican earthquake. While caring for others, members also had fun. At Spanish dinners, they broke piñatas and learned a few Spanish dance steps. When moderator Ms. Perryman, president Tamara Ali '86, vice-president Socorro Castillo '89, treasurer Mary Ann Evia '87, secretary were asked about the club's success, they said, “ ¡ Maravilloso ! ”

For your eyes only

Attention students: do you need a helping hand? ... the Campus Ministry Team and the Peer Support Group were there to aid their fellow students. Although they performed very different services, they both worked toward a common goal: the well being of the students and the community.

Campus Ministry, an institution at HNH, sponsored many of the events students remembered so well. Early morning masses, blood drives to benefit the community, collections for the devastated around the world, and retreats held on campus were just a few of the many events planned and executed by this hard working group of girls.

Peer Counselors led by competent moderator John Gunty, listened patiently to the problems of many (confidentially, of course) and aided them in coming up with the right solutions. "It made me feel better just knowing I have a friend on my side," commented one student. In their second year of existence, peer counsellors remained a welcome part of HNH.

NHS and CSF

The California Scholarship Federation (CSF) was an organization for students who excelled in their studies. The CSF president was Shawn Dawson, '86, and the secretary/treasurer was Pamela Soon, '88. CSF had several tutoring workshops where members learned how to tutor tutees. CSF members were given the opportunity to help their fellow students who needed help through the Peer Tutoring service. When asked why she joined, Goretti Heinz, '88, replied, "... I wanted to help others." CSF also sponsored a dinner with the members of St. Mary's CSF.

The National Honor Society (NHS) was a scholastic organization headed by president Sharon Spier, '86. During the school's Wine Tasting and Barbecue, NHS sponsored a baby sitting service. NHS was a prestigious club that was very hard to get into. But once elected, one was a member for life. The demanding criteria for membership included good grades and active participation in school and community activities. In addition, one had to be nominated by three teachers and approved by the remaining faculty. The group's elite quality made many students want to become members. Mary Ann Evia elaborated, "Because of the high standards and elite status, students were urged to aim high."

ASB Goal: Participation

From pumpkin carving to the Christmas play, the Student Council played a large part in the lives of the student body by planning many events. They did this by being extremely dedicated, enthusiastic and responsible people. Their main goal, said Angela Ysunza, '86, Student Body President was to "bring unity to Holy Names through unique activities, greater enthusiasm in the council." Getting people involved was another main goal. Cydia Taylor Junior Class President said, "We try to involve everyone in the student body to work in committees or participate." Sr. Kathleen commented, "We have a lot of experienced members as well as many new members. There is a lot of enthusiasm!"

The Spirit Committee generated a lot of energy, especially at rallies and sports events. "We have made the Spirit Committee more than just a committee, we have made it a necessity." remarked Jenell Thompson, Junior member. The Spirit Committee ran such events as Monarch Aid, rallies, spirit points, and a large part of Spirit Week. When asked how they felt about the Spirit Committee, the student body always replied, "WE FEEL GOOD, OH WE FEEL SO GOOD, OH!"

Norway, W. Germany, and The Vatican were among the countries represented by the Model United Nations this year. Led by Debbie Sutter, the diplomats of Holy Names challenged other countries (schools) on March 14-16 at U.C. Berkeley in a debate atmosphere. Their presentation and delivery showed determination, perseverance, and hard work. Patsy Soon, '87, was involved with the M.U.N. because, "I wanted to learn more about the United Nations and how countries solve problems peacefully".

Stunt Women

During the production of MGM, these were some of the sizzling items news that bombarded the sport sections of various newspapers:

In tennis, Boris Becker, a red-headed West German, won Wimbledon at the age of 17. Niners, on the other hand, lost their first game of the NFL season to the Minnesota Vikings. With the help of Chris Mullen, the Golden State Warriors were winning and had hopes for the Championships. While Patrick Ewing made his debut with the New York Knicks, the Kansas City Royals won the 85 World Series against the St. Louis Cardinals.

While sports history was being made around the world, in the pink building situated in the hills of Oakland, there were all-star players being shaped. Everyday after school meant either a practice or a game for HNH jockettes. There was no time to fool around for there was sweating, panting, and practicing to be done; but all this hard work paid off. In every single sport, HNH athletes excelled.

While the U.S. volleyball team was taking the world by storm after their gold-medal-winning performance in 1984, our own volleyball team had made Holy Names synonymous with the word "volleyball". This was the case for all HNH sports.

All athletically inclined were encouraged to join and excel in the various sports: volleyball, cross country, basketball, softball, and track and field. One of these talented athletes was Romia Jenkins, '87, number 23 on the basketball team. She had this to say about HNH sports, "Holy Names is the best school in this entire area, and I'm proud to represent it as part of the b-ball team!"

HNH athletes, "We are proud of you!". Congratulations on a fabulous year.

In the frame: "Hey wait a minute," says Charlotte Rodeen, '89, as she kicks back after volleyball practice. Mary Quinn, '89, dribbles to victory. Heather Weatherford, '88, concentrates on a winning serve. At match point, Kimberly Rivers, '89, slices the ball. Angela Ysunza and Catherine Scotlan, both from the Class of '86, jump for joy on fellow classmate and teammate Shellae Ruffin's back as they are the CAL champs for the second season in a row. Kristi Wollitz, '86, Shellae Ruffin, '86, and Sonja Killingsworth, '88, listen to some tactics for next week's game.

Body and Soul

Ready for anything, Andrea Watson, '86, keeps a watchful eye on her opponent.

Volleyball

Besides being acknowledged as an Exemplary Private School, Holy Names also had a sensational volleyball team to brag about. The Monarchs had their best season ever in the history of HNHS. After being undefeated in the regular season, they went on to become the CAL champs for the third consecutive year. Led by Coach Ron Twomey, they went on to win the Northcoast championship. They even made it to the state semi-finals.

Though they were defeated in the regionals, their incredible record was 23-2. Holy Names was proud of their "awesome" team for representing the school so well. Their success was partly due to the many enthusiastic fans who came to cheer them on. One fan, Leann Guillory, '88, commented, "... We have one killer volleyball team."

It's in the air

Sports were a very important part of Holy Names's spirit, and one very successful aspect of this was the basketball team. With their 14-8 record they gained a third place position in the CAL league. As a dedicated team they put in many hours of practice to perfect their game. The season was highlighted by the exceptional efforts of the team and by their good sportsmanship. An important member of the Varsity team, Celeste Clemons, '87, had this to say, "We went farther this year than last year because of the strength of our team".

Cydia Taylor, '87, and Mary Cambell, '86, listen attentively to Coach Conboy's complex basketball lingo.

Lisa Malvo, '86, leaps for the basket as the opposing team waits in suspense.

Shellae Ruffin, '86, and Olaywa Austin, '88, wait and watch anxiously on the sidelines.

Carma Carden, '86, #21, scrambles to get by her guard. Presenting the members of the J.V. team: Christine Connolly, '88, Tonya Watson, '88, Leanita Lamberto, '88, Yvette Broussard, '89, Theresa Milam, '89, and Coach Frank Kemp. Second row: Mary Quinn, '89, Rhonda Rivers, '88, Josette Brown, '88, and Charlotte Rodeen, '88.

Charlotte Rodeen, '88, pauses to make a perfect shot.

Basketball

The Champ

The Spring of '86 was filled with promises of flowers, sunshine, and victory! From the way the softball team played during practice, they seemed destined for a winning season. The story behind the scene of the HNHS Monarchs was the management of the team. The coach was Rick Stainland, the manager was Maria Tabada, '87, and of course the score keeper was Monica Focha, '86. From homeruns to triple plays, these ladies were major league material!

Speaking of sports, Holy Names also had a successful cross country team. Coached by Jim Schaufele, the girls won many meets. Some of the key runners were Tanzanika Carter, '87, and Angela Butler, '86. The coach commented on the performance of the team saying, "The girls did extremely well. They surprised the league with their ability and competitiveness." All around, the '85-'86 season was very successful for the Holy Names athletic program.

Take Me Out to the Ball Game

Kimmeri Ibarra, Angela Butler, Tanzanika Carter, Kilean Mullins, Marea Battle are the 85-86 track team. Angela Butler and Kileah Mullins stretch enthusiastically? Angela Butler smiles as she comes into the last stretch.

Clare Focha is resting awhile after a hard game. Rick Stainland, the softball coach gives his team a pep talk. The coach gives a few batting tips to the girls. Dana Thomas anxiously awaits the ball.

FAME

Celebrating excellence—

"It was all like a dream, it seemed so unreal," commented Angela Ysunza, '86, upon her return from Washington DC on Oct. 3, 1985, where she, Sr. Kathryn Ondreyco, and Brenda Drake Jackson, accepted the Exemplary Private High School award. While they received the award, students discussed in homeroom what they thought was special about HNH. "Everyone tries her hardest to make others feel at home," stated Andrea Knutson, '89. According to Sarah Raineri, '88, "It isn't a fashion show and no one is going to criticize you if you don't dress like they do." Stated Tracy Stevenson, '86, "We are more of a family than a student body and faculty." Regardless of the statement, the general opinion was that HNH was the place to be!!

Yet the award was only one of the ways in which they celebrated excellence. The five year plan introduced by the administration was designed to raise the (already high) standards of education, and was received well by faculty, students, and parents, (although many lamented the planned closing of Maryrose.)

In the classroom, every student was challenged to do her best, Freshmen were initiated into the not so easy academic life, Sophomores continued in their strivings for success, Juniors learned the difference between "Sophomore" and "Junior", and Seniors, in their last stretch, prepared diligently for life after graduation.

Sr. Kathryn Ondreyco and Angela Ysunza, '86, pose proudly with the Exemplary Private High School plaque and flag, which they proudly accepted on behalf of HNH on Oct. 3, 1985, from the Secretary of Education.

In the frame . . . students study silently, Marea Battle, '87, masters measuring mass, while Marcella Wright, '86, and Cydia Taylor, '87, anxiously anticipate announcements.

That's Entertainment

Stars of the future prepare for their big debut.

Brenda Battle, '89, gets inspiration for her art project from her wicked witch costume.

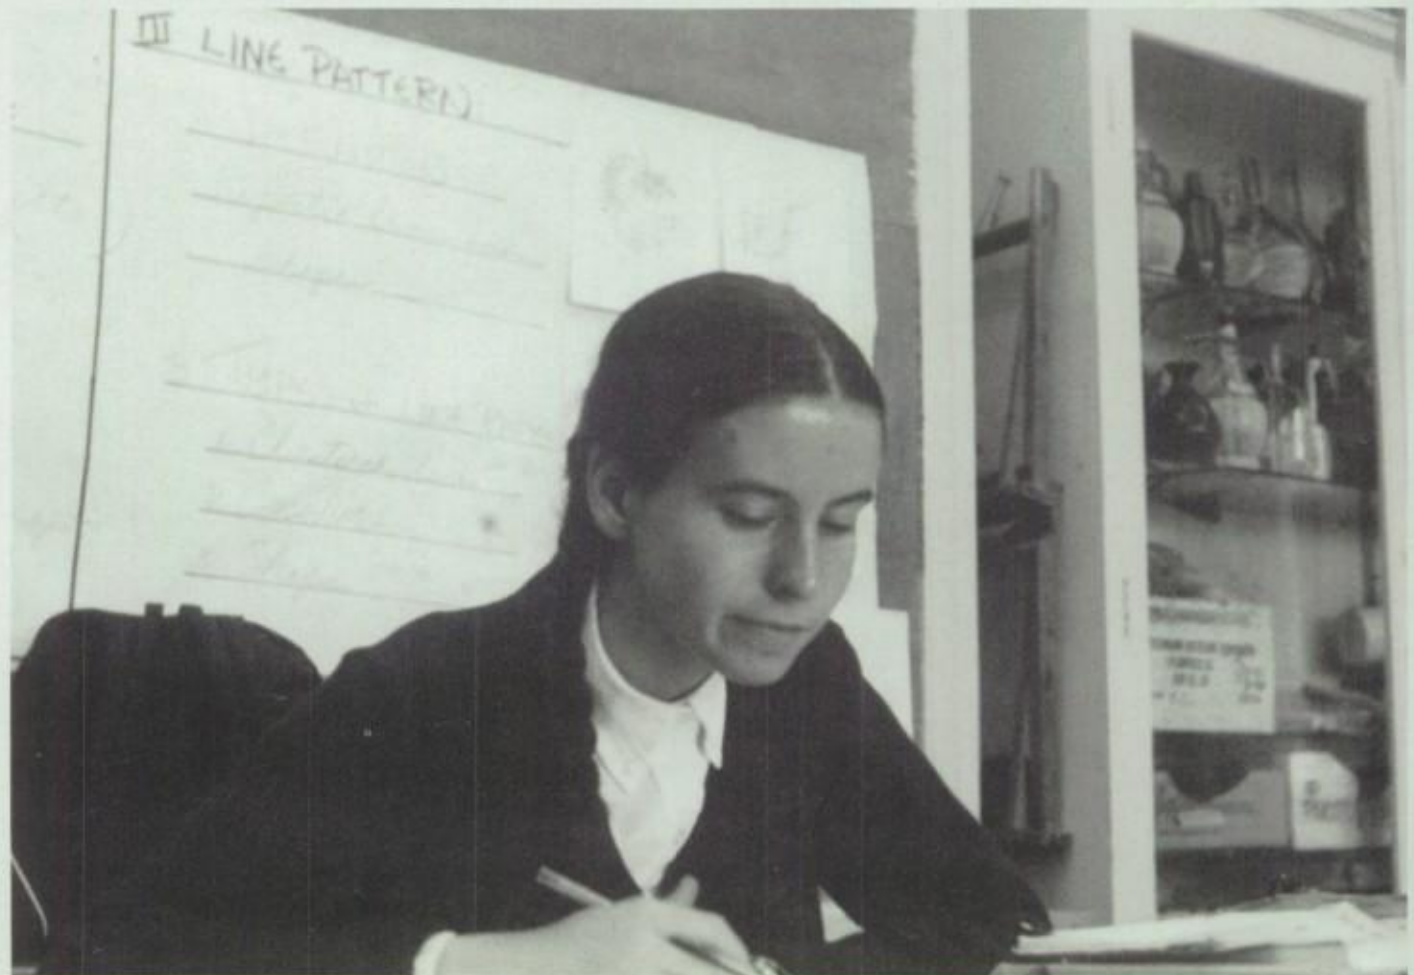

Felicia Williams, '89, is determined to become a maestro. She practices Beethoven until her fingers fall off.

Jessica Luse, '89, meticulously finishes her drawing.

At a jam session, Rebecca Whittaker, '89, improvises on her bass.

Susan Jane Harrison, '89, possesses a lovely smile. As a young budding artist, her artwork cheers up even the gloomiest person.

The new Whitney Houston, Nadia Willis, '89, sings her heart out at a practice session the day before the big performance.

One of the things that made Holy Names unique was its fine arts program. Ever since the school's opening in 1931, fine arts has been an integral part of the school curriculum. In order to introduce students to the various aspects of art, the freshmen fine arts program was established.

The program consisted of trimesters, which meant that a student was allowed to take three different fine arts classes during her freshmen year. The various choices were art, music, art appreciation, band, and choral. At the end of eleven weeks, the art and performing classes strut their stuff at a mini concert and exhibit during D block.

One of the most popular classes, taken by almost all the freshmen, was the choral class. They learned to sing such classical tunes as "The Llama" and "Sentimental Journey". LaVonne Mallory, '89, an upcoming singing star, once commented, "Choral was a lot of fun. I learned how to use my voice box and read music."

To many, the freshmen fine arts program was an enriching experience and a stepping stone into the choir, vocal ensemble, art I, II, III, advanced art, and orchestra.

As one passed through the hallways, one could sense the creative minds at work. One day, some of the members of the class of '89 will reach fame, which they owe to their training at the "school of the arts."

Words And Music Lines and Forms

From pencil to piano, from Sleigh riding to sculpting, from rendering to sight-reading, the fine arts department encompassed all there was to know.

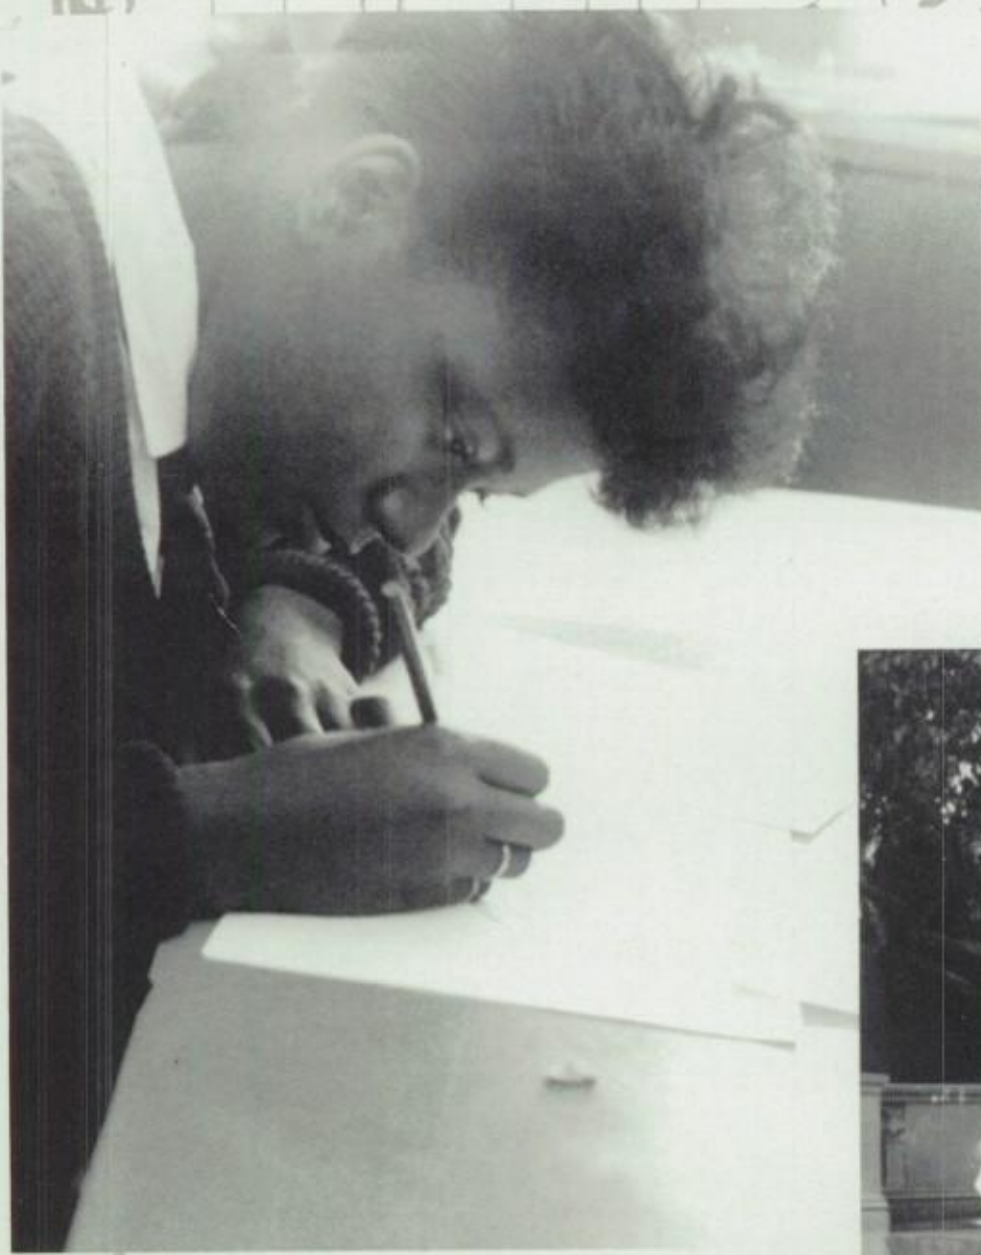

Choir and Vocal Ensemble practiced and performed numerous pieces throughout the year as they learned various vocal techniques. Art students spent the year mastering the "breathing line," and exhibits were displayed throughout the year for all to enjoy. Orchestra, small but strong, worked hard to prepare for performances at the Christmas and Spring Concerts.

Thanks to all who gave art and music a new and special meaning at HNH.

Maestros Patsy Soon, '87, Connie Devers, '88, and Krista Ysunza, '88, serenade the audience. Celeste Clemons, '87, has learned her lesson well. She puts herself into the art. Shawn Dawson, '86, shades and finishes her pencil drawing, while Jennie Domingo, '88, examines her charcoal drawing. The elite and prestigious vocal ensemble take a break from singing to gather for a group shot.

Being in drama was not only a way to meet boys and show off dramatic talent, but, as Karen Dabney, '87, stated, "Being in drama builds up a person's self confidence and teaches respect for the theatrical arts. Drama is a family away from home and there we work together to reach a common goal."

"If the walls could talk, what tales they could tell," Antone Olivier introduced the fall play, "The Dining Room" to the audience on November 21, 22, and 23. The play, performed on the HNH stage, dealt with family relationships and the roles people play when they interact with one another.

The second semester drama production and the musical of the year was "The Wiz". Rehearsed and performed at St. Mary's, this play was the modern answer to the classical Wizard of Oz, a tale of enchantment and imagination.

Intermission

First semester was over—what then? HNH students needed a break from the pressures of studying. They got it. Before the beginning of the second semester, students spent a fortnight of fun—taking classes, going on trips, participating in a career exploration or service program, or studying independently. This was appropriately called Midsession.

On campus, students chose a variety of classes, from The Beatles to Astronomy. One popular class was Modern Jazz Dance. Despite the aches and pains, amateurs learned to coordinate hands and feet with music. Off campus, students observed and experienced a wide range of careers. Marrienne Avila, '86, worked in the San Francisco mayor's office where she was able to meet the incumbent mayor, Diane Feinstein. At World Airways, Mary Beth Campbell, '87, learned to use a word processor and completed part of an official operator's manual. Mary Ann Evia and Patsy Soon, '87, had the opportunity to work with a top scientist on a dilemma concerning the icosahedral phase of an aluminum and manganese alloy. This was just a sample of the fun that people had. Celeste Clemons, '87, said it well, "It was a great break from studies."

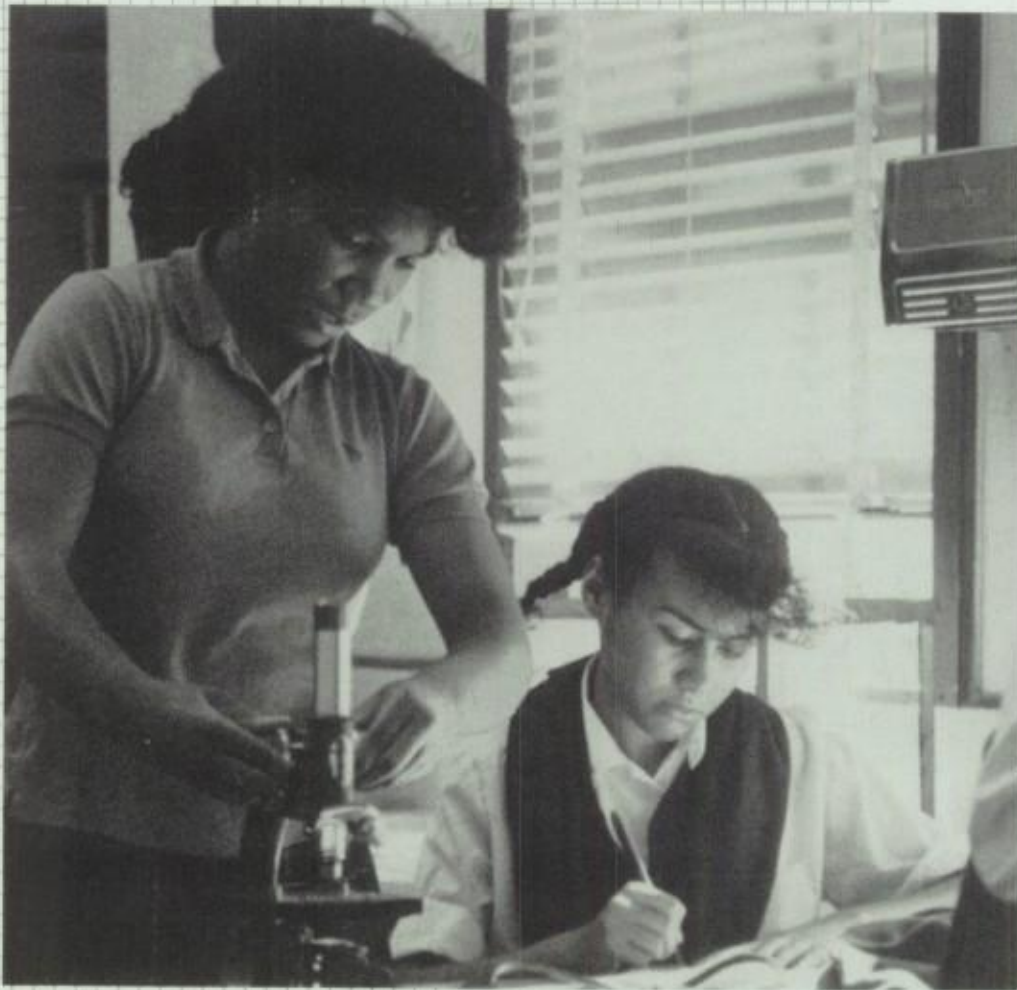

Midsession

Annette Williams, '89, makes music with her violin. Jennie Domingo, '88, prepares a gourmet feast. Inez Lawson, '88, writes in calligraphy as beautifully as she smiles. Lillian Christensen, '87, prepares for an energizing workout. Sheila Van Pelt, '88, and Venezuela Waters, '89, type the time away. Toni Pruitt, '87, and friends perform in the hopes of an Oscar nomination. Mary Campbell, '86, and Sister Margaret Spiller familiarize themselves with the "Apple".

Academia

The Technical Crew

One of Holy Names's attributes was its academics. The quality classes offered and the challenging subject matter taught developed the young minds at Holy Names. Holy Names had a diverse array of academics, ranging from the Core program, which helped some students prepare for other courses, to the generally offered curriculum, and to the honors classes for those who excelled in the general curriculum. This year Holy Names received a great honor by being one of the 65 schools recognized nationally by the government as being an exemplary private school. Sister Kathryn and the student body president, Angela Ysunza, flew to the nation's capital to receive the award from the Secretary of Education William Bennett. Holy Names established a firm academic foundation which was respected by other schools, recognized nationally, and prided by the students.

Yolanda Cotton, '88, and lab partner Rhonda Rivers, '88, study the microscopic wonders of biology. Joy Vaughns, '89, seems thrilled to discover one of the joys of being a freshman—body building.

A group of freshmen are happier to gab than to crack a book. Michelle Smith, '88, gives it her all in choir. Smile Diane Krieger, '88, you're on Candid Camera!

Producers and Directors

Hard as it was to believe, teachers did live separate lives outside of school. Many had outside interests unknown to their students.

Take Sister Collette Carroll for example. Did you know that she loved the 49ers, win or lose? That Mrs. Hawkins and Mrs. Reilly loved to run and compete in marathons? Mrs. Olney enjoyed entering her dogs in shows, while Mrs. Navarette hiked and sang with the San Francisco Bay Area Chamber Choir.

Some teachers had hobbies that were somewhat related to the school. For example, Ms. Brownell was on a ring for a Christian Family Camp. However, other teachers belonged to organizations that no students would associate them with. Trivia Question: Which teacher was on the Oakland Youth Lacrosse Parent Board? Answer: None other than our English teacher, Mrs. Barnett! In addition, were you aware that Mr. Gunty was an avid collector of baseball cards from the fifties and sixties?

Nevertheless, even as much as we seem to stereotype our teachers, we must remember one thing: TEACHERS ARE PEOPLE TOO!!

The Schwerin Family sits down for a moment of rest on Halloween.

Mrs. Hayes disguises herself as Ms. Piggy while Krista Ysunza, '88, enjoys class.

Mrs. Hawkins poses for a casual look. Kim Nebel, '87, waits patiently for Sr. Ann Gilchrist to write something down.

Debbie Sutter tries to explain une probleme difficile to a student.

Star Makers

Parents, a word we could all relate to. They were the people that brought us happiness (they did once, didn't they?) and frustration (this you can understand). Did you ever stop to think that parents do a variety of things? I'm speaking in terms of their jobs, one of which might be teaching.

Quite a number of the faculty were parents this year. Among our list of moms and dads were: Mrs. Barnett, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Tortorich, Mrs. Layrac, Mrs. Navarette, Mrs. Potter, Mrs. Reilly, Mrs. Pruitt, Mrs. Jacobs, and even Mr. Schwerin!

Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Tortorich, and Mrs. Navarette had their hands full with toddlers. In addition, Mrs. Reilly was the proud mother of pre-schoolers. The winners for most migraines went to Mrs. Barnett and Mrs. Pruitt, both mothers of teenage sons.

However, the award for veteran mother went to our secretary, Mrs. Layrac. She had five grown adults she took credit for raising. She said that her experience as a mother helped her to have more patience and understanding with the students. Her comment was, "After raising five children I feel like an expert."

One important advantage that the parental members of the faculty had was being able to see both sides of a discussion-their lecture, and the students' response.

To all those who deserved recognition as parents as well as faculty, we congratulate you, for bringing a new dimension to teaching!

Seniors-to-be

Live a little-love a little

"Freshmen in the balcony, let us hear you shout." And shout they did! The youngest and newest group at HNH was also the largest and loudest, especially at rallies. They immediately fit into the crowd. "It's nice to be in an environment where you know people care," commented Ida Lewis, '89.

Sophs, with a year behind them, continued with awesome style so uniquely "88". Bake sales and candy grams were among their successfully sponsored activities. They indeed made many great memories on their road through the Sophomore year.

Juniors, one year from the top, let everyone know who they were. Their ring ceremony and Prom were memorable for all who took part. With three years behind them, they eagerly awaited their Senior year.

The Class of '89 Shines in '86.

Freshman: a student in the first year of high school. That is a rather generic definition, especially in regard to the class of '89. A typical image of a freshman is that of a scared, awkward, confused person. This year's Frosh shattered that image. They were together from the get-go, surprising all with their unity and spirit. Led by Moderator Mr. Schwerin, President Kim Nichols, Vice President Cherisse Payne, Secretary Nicole Ni- chols, and Treasurer Charlotte Rodeen, they breezed through their first year at HNH. They began with the Freshman mixer, and sponsored many fundraisers. Carefully, they chose unifying class colors, mascot, flower, and motto. When asked what made the class of '89 special, April Abad, '89 responded, "We're proud to be Freshmen, and show it through our spirit and unity"

Frosh Experience Change

Dramatic change is often a large part of Freshmen life. Going from a class of 30 or 40 to one of 100 isn't easy. Having to change classrooms after each class made it that much more difficult. Added to that was the stress of a rigorous academic life and the fear of being considered an outsider. All built obstacles, but the class of '89 worked together to shatter them. They soon became used to high school life, and were quickly made an important part of HNH.

Fast and furious Sophs learn to drive

One of the highlights of the Sophomore year was learning how to drive. With the class of 1988 behind the wheel, there was great cause for alarm. This past year, a feeling of anxiety could be felt from Holy Names all the way to the DMV.

Sophomores were given the chance to learn how to operate a car through courses during Midsession. Julie Pugliesi, '88, said, "I want to drive because I don't want to depend on others." While the Sophomores' quest for independence continued, the rest of Oakland held its breath. With the class of '88 on the streets, who knows what could happen?

After passing the Midsession courses with flying colors, many of the sixteen year olds went on to get their driver's licenses. They were ready to enter the fast lane world of potholes, flat tires, the 55 MPH speed limit, and traffic tickets. CONGRATULATIONS Sophomores. The once peaceful streets of Oakland will never be the same again.

Sophomores Going for it.

The Sophomore year was the year that teachers started to apply more pressure. With hard classes and hard-pushing teachers, Sophs wished they were Freshmen again. They longed for that year when they breezed through their classes.

Being a Sophomore had its advantages too. Sophomores knew their way around. Karla Wolf, '88, explained, "I like being a Sophomore because I feel more confident. As a Freshman I felt intimidated."

This past year was obviously the class of '88's year to shine. They sparkled in successful fundraisers and even a dance. They proved that their motto was true, "THERE'S NO STOPPING US."

The stars of '88 line up on the back campus to spell out their class numeral.

The HNH Juniors

celebrating their status as upperclassmen, the Class of 1987 made the best of their Junior year. They lived up to Junior class moderator Sister Mary Haupt's expectations, "... to be a class with style."

While they had to wave goodbye to a few class members, they welcomed the new faces of Naja Franklin, Elizabeth Gallagher, Michelle Gunter, and Nina Pruyn. These people only added greater diversity to the already diverse class which included such people as LaTrina Dumas, Junior homeroom representative and member of HNH spirit committee. She had this to say about the class of 1987, "They are the best class at HNH!"

One had to admit, they truly were the class with style. Their flower, the red rose represented their sweetness and care for one another. They took the time to recognize each member's birthday with a special treat. They carefully chose their little sisters. Cydia Taylor, Junior class president, hoped that the Class of '87 would set the precedent that the big/little sister program be "... a vehicle for developing special friendships." Truly it was.

The Junior class was also strong and powerful, symbolized by their mascot, the black stallion. They never once gave up when times were hard, for they believed in their motto, "If we believe; we can achieve."

With such momentous events such as the memorable Junior Ring Ceremony and the enchanting Junior Prom, the Class of 1987 enjoyed a prosperous year, bringing them to the threshold of their Senior year.

The New Upperclass "men"

Being a Junior entailed a lot of things. For every Junior, it meant carrying a cumbersome U.S. History book and taking the grueling PSAT. For some, it also meant trying to understand the forever puzzling concepts of chemistry or biology. But along with these hardships came the acknowledgements. The Class of 1987 were finally upperclassmen. As big sisters, they became role models for the Class of '89. They had the privilege of off-campus every Friday. With about 60% of the Juniors driving, transportation was no longer a problem. Whether it was a red Honda Moped or a white BMW or everything in between, it was better than AC Transit.

It all began Sept. 2, 1982, when 138 Freshmen arrived at HNH. Individually, they came from a variety of backgrounds; together they made up the spirited class of '86. They wasted no time in becoming a very important part of the Holy Names community . . . but the best was yet to come.

They returned the following year as Sophomores, eager to pick up where they left off. Some of their firsts included a Soph. dance a trip to Great America, and a Valentine balloon sale. All of these turned out to be profitable and unifying activities, bringing them one step closer to their goal. . . . but the best was yet to come.

During their Junior year they got a taste of what it was like to be upperclassmen. They celebrated a beautiful Junior ring ceremony, a memorable Junior Prom, and remained undefeated in Powder Puff for the second year . . . but the best was yet to come.

Finally, after 3 years of waiting, anticipating — it was their year: the best was here! The class of '86, smaller yet stronger, set out to make their Senior year the best ever. Senior privileges, the Senior Ball, and of course, graduation, were just a few of the great times these young ladies shared. After four years of learning, living, growing together, they did not walk away from Holy Names empty handed. Each carried her own treasure of great memories.

THE LAST CHALLENGE

High school has gone by too fast." Jamie Reed-Sutton spoke the words many Seniors thought but didn't dare say. With the threat of the ever quickly approaching future looming over their heads, many Seniors found it challenging to concentrate on academics. It was so difficult trying to decide what to do after graduation that dedication to day to day high school life was sometimes next to impossible. "Between trying to do well this year, making the all important decisions regarding college and career, and then waiting for them to make decisions about me, I feel trapped in a kind of a time warp." commented Dolores Ferrero. Innundated with things they "had to know before college," Seniors often felt trapped in what was supposed to be the best year of their high school career.

In spite of the pressure, Andrea Watson, '86, keeps a smile on her face. Formulating her question, Shelley Stewart waits patiently while classmates Celisa Roberson, Tina Phillips, and Angela LeTourneau, '86, listen attentively to the discussion. The Twenty-Fifth Hour

Day in the life of an HNH Senior

The time: 6:00 A.M. . . . the place: a small room containing bed, dresser, alarm, with clothes and paper scattered on floor . . . the scene: alarm clock being hurled across room at 55 mph. So began a typical day for a Senior. She searched frantically for a clean blouse and was fully clothed before realizing it was Friday and she had free dress.

At school with 30 seconds to spare, she hurried to A Block, still munching on the last of breakfast. Next, to English to write an essay in class. Her thesis remained where she had left it the night before, balled up on the floor under the bed.

After spending Nutrition writing her conclusion, she was off to Christian Lifestyles. The marriage project, where did she put the marriage project? Ah, there, she found it, coffee stains and all. On to Chemistry, where she doused her lab partner with hydrochloric acid. Didn't quite smell like Giorgio, but hey, not that bad!?! She sat through math in a daze; the numbers were Greek to her.

Lunch, everyone piled into one car, and it was off to Wendy's. Back by F Block, her friends went to class and she headed for the library for a nap. All too soon, it was time for G Block, and she reluctantly left the accommodating couch. She walked to class with the enthusiasm of a dead turtle, slipped into an inconspicuous seat in the back, and hoped she wouldn't be noticed. What? What was that? Wake up Senior, it's time to go home!

Seniors gather for the class picture on the back campus. Trying to understand Government, Dani Bowman, '86, enlists in the aid of Mr. Schwerin. Enjoying her off campus privilege, Lonnie Spiller, '86, heads toward the car. Heading for home, Diane Fleury and Stacey Wiley, '86, wait for friends. Stephanie Mapes, '86 relaxes away from it all.

What is the best thing you learned in high school?

'This' wild year

That was the year the Seniors were wild, funky, and loose. Did you catch one? They were HOT!! They were non-stop and always on the go.

It spread fast, like a bad virus. You couldn't stand too close, because it seemed to rub off instantly. What was it called? Yes, that's right, I'm talking about SENIORITIS!

Senioritis works like this: it affects the brain, moves down from the neck to the shoulders, through the heart, jerks on the soul, stimulates the leg muscles, rejuvenates the feet, and then, all at once, it gets to you.

It is an extremely contagious disease, and all of the Seniors seemed to contract it.

It caught them when they least expected it, while eating, dancing, partying, or whatever. After a while, it seemed the Seniors were in remission, but it hit once again in June, and no one was immune. By this time, someone had discovered a cure: GRADUATION!!

So Stacey,
 my world always depends on my yellow bus partner and my around friend. I'm touch that we kept in touch you left. and that glad when you come back. I'll always remember you so don't forget me!
 Love, Petra

2. Down and out, Suzanne DeForce finds it difficult to face another Monday.
3. Reach ... 2 ... 3 ... 4 ..., Shellae Ruffin prepares for the tough game ahead.
4. Outnumbered, Petria Tucker and Cameo Rogers surround themselves with gorgeous guys.
5. Forgetting all, for one fleeting moment, Yvonne Jensen dances the night away.
6. "...!?", Tracy Stevenson finds herself suddenly stricken with that deadly disease Senioritis.

Stacey,
 well you're a really sweet, cool person and you better stay that way. Good luck in the years to come and always remember me as the girl who flipped off
 the year book camera.
 Love, Traci

Buddy Buddy

(When we were young)

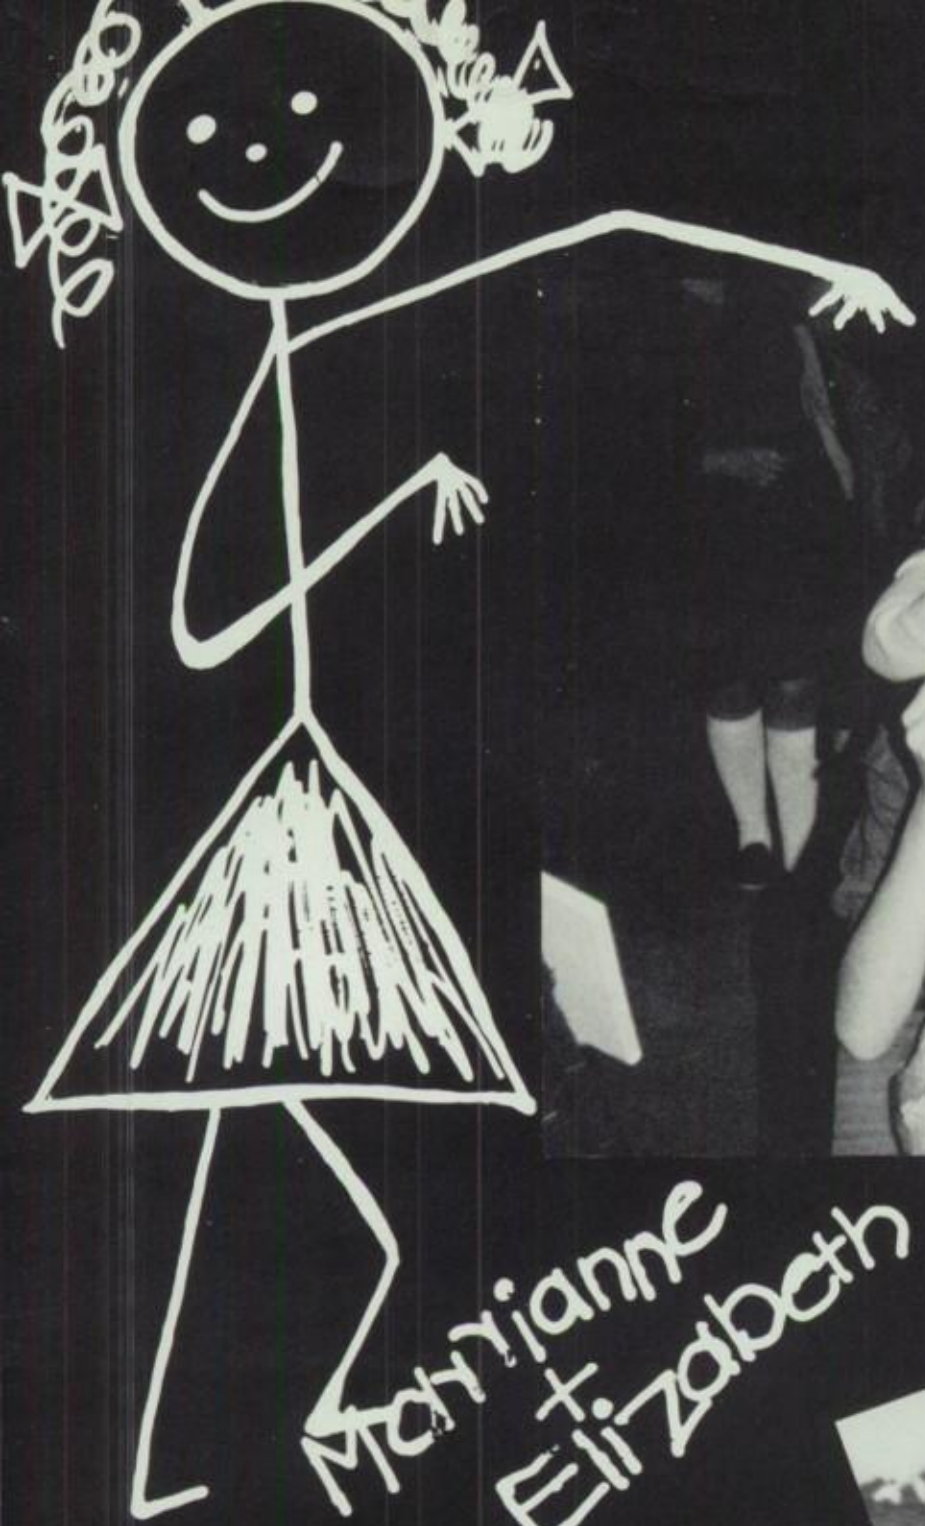

As the class of '86 prepared to leave childhood behind and begin adult life, many found it difficult yet a lot of fun to look back upon the changes that had occurred since arriving at HNH as Freshmen. Young ladies matured mentally, physically, and emotionally, growing as individuals and as a family.

Physically, the changes were the most noticeable. Braces were shed, tastes in dress style changed drastically, and many grew inches taller in the years between 1982 and 1986. "No one would believe Laurie Wong was once preppy!" stated Sarah Messer, '86, as she laughingly looked at pictures of the way we were.

Mentally, spiritually, and emotionally, the changes were more subtle, but never-the-less they were there. Seniors marvelled at how much they'd learned as they prepared for life after graduation. Some of the most important lessons, however, occurred not in a classroom. They were learned, instead, by interacting with friends, with the family of Holy Names.

One hundred fifty dollar sellers pose on the stairs for their group shot. In the frame: special thanks to Dolores Ferrero, Chris Parodi, and Tracy Holmes for their support.

Three little words: thank you much!!

Sell a full page ad and you get a free yearbook! One half page got the student a gift certificate to Tower Records. Business card saleswomen received three free dress passes. So students were motivated to sell yearbook patrons, and sell they did! As the last day of the drive approached, there was talk of running out of space to put all the ads. The yearbook staff made more space . . . by adding 8 pages to the book. All the funds were earmarked for one purpose: to be used to create the best book HNH had ever seen.

Top patron sellers were Dolores Ferrero, '86, selling $340 worth of ads, Christine Parodi, '86, who sold $277, Tracy Holmes, '87, with $270, Jamie Reed-Sutton, '86, with $228, and Desiree Johnson, '86, with $225. One-hundred fifty dollar sellers were at a record high, with eleven members of this elite group. Special thanks to Lisa Mittone, Jackie Deschaine, Nicol Faison, Alyx Pitts, Sarah Messer, Stacey Harmon, Tracey Lun, Monique Barnes, Lynda Howell, and Cameo Rodgers. '86, for your much appreciated support.

Special congratulations to my daughter, Stacey Wiley, and the class of '86. You've come a long way from diapers, teething, primary, and secondary education. You are about to embark upon a journey into the realm of life's reality and will not be able to find the answer always in a text book. Your commitment and dedication to achieve your goals as a young adult will overcome any obstacle you may encounter. Recognize your own inner strength, for you can and will accomplish your goals in life.

Hi Stacey,

well we started off disliking each other all because of a stupid school and now we are running buddies 4-ever. The time has gone by so fast and I'm ready to Blow this joint. Be careful during the summer OK and enjoy life!

Love Ya.

Dear Stacey,

Hey chick! What can I say? You are definitely one of the people I value here at HWT. You always have a smile on your face and always are nice to me. It's hard for me to write in words how much you add to my life. I mean, we may not hang w/ each other but we can talk and joke around. I value that very much. I wish you all the success the world has to offer!

Miss Ya!

"What is that you hold in your hand?
Nothing, you say? Look again.
Every hand holds some special gift-
A hammer, a broom, a pen,
A hoe, a scalpel, an artist's brush,
A needle, a microscope,
A violin's bow, a way with words
In the giving of faith and hope.
What is that you hold in your hand?
Whatever your gift may be,
It can open your door to abundant lifeyou hold in your hand the key."

Telling The World

This was the first time HNH addressed a very important issue that proved fatal for many teens. The issue was drunk driving, and the response by the HNH community was its own chapter of SADD—Students Against Driving Drunk. Headed by Ms. Tortorich and president Julie Yu, '86, dedicated people joined the force to stop drunk driving and the deaths of millions of people each year. Through mind challenging posters, they conveyed startling messages which reminded us that drunk driving was a very frightening aspect of society. Most of us never realized how serious the issue of driving drunk was and never tried to address the issue. Fortunately, SADD members dealt with the problem because they knew that this issue demanded immediate attention and action.

Money Talks

Seniors in Econ. Honors received the opportunity to participate in Junior Achievement. This included selling shares of stock and advertising products. The products included digital clocks and agate night lights. For several weeks, the Seniors could be seen persuading friends and faculty to invest in their "product." Some were very aggressive saleswomen whose hard work resulted in a higher percentage of sales, (or a higher percentage of annoyed friends). Unfortunately, those not planning to go into public relations or sales didn't fare so well. All in all, The HNH stock Exchange ran at an all-time high by the project, and it resulted in a "Madison Ave." success.

we can't keep in touch. I'm glad we're friends and I hope it stays that way. Mike

Behind the Scenes

Whew, the school year is over, and we, the yearbook staff, are through with the book. It was a lot of hard work, and there was an enormous amount of pressure on our shoulders. We worked hard to capture all of 1985-86 in words, phrases, sentences and pictures as we tried to top last year's book!

Every Tuesday, Thursday, and much of our free time we spent drawing layouts, typing copy, shooting, cropping, and captioning pictures as we strove to meet our deadlines. Mai Hoang, who spent most of her time in the staff's little typing room, had this to say about deadlines: "The pressure makes you feel stronger and somehow more important after it is met." "There is nothing that equals the feeling of accomplishment when the book finally comes out. Months of work have been compiled into 136 pages of memories; it's awesome," added Dolores Ferrero.

The Echoes staff was led by moderator Ms. Larkin, editor Dolores Ferrero, co-editor Liz Varela, copy editor Mary Beth Campbell, and layout editor Christine Parodi. All worked together to bring you, the reader, this complete issue of the 1986 Echoes. Enjoy!

Echoes '86

Learning about layout, Nancy Lucas, '87, and Sandra Vergil, '86, pass the time 'til 4:00. Dolores Ferrero, Stan Wyne, and Liz Varela pose together at YB West. Mai Hoang and Mary Ann Evia catch up on last minute typing. Getting ready to focus, photographer Monica Focha, '86, takes time out to be "shot."

A Credit to the Movies Thanks for the memories

For those "old movie buffs" among us, the yearbook staff has compiled a list of those titles used as headlines throughout the book. All information was provided by The MGM Story (John Douglas Eames, Crown Publishers, Inc., NY, 1982)

The Band Wagon (1953): a musical comedy starring Fred Astaire, Nanette Fabray, and Jack Buchanan Believe In Me (1971): a drama featuring Michael Sarrazin and Jacqueline Bisset as a young couple struggling through the problems with drug addiction.....
Body and Soul (1927) a remake of the 1920's The Branding Iron, featuring Lionel Barrymore and Aileen Pringle.....
Buddy Buddy (1981) a comedy about two men, Walter Matthau and Jack Lemmon, who raise havoc in a California hotel.....
A Catered Affair (1956) a gripping drama starring Bette Davis as "the Mother of the Bride.".....
The Champ (1978) a remake of the 1931 classic starring Jack Warden, Faye Dunaway, and Ricky Schroder focusing on a boxer that makes a comeback for the sake of his son.....
Count Your Blessings (1959) a drama starring Maurice Chevalier and Deborah Kerr which didn't live up to its expectations.....
Faithful in My Fashion (1946) dealt with executives such as Tom Drake and Donna Reed in a department store.....
Fame (1980) a popular movie starring Gene Anthony Rae and Irene Cara, two students at the New York School of the Performing Arts.....
Fast and Furious (1939) a combination comedy/mystery about the murder of a beauty contestant, starring Ann Southern and Tranchot Tone.....
For Your Eyes Only (1981) One of the James Bond Series starring Roger Moore as 007.....
Guys and Dolls (1955) a musical starring Marlon Brandon and Jean Simmons spanning 2 1/2 hours of song and comedy.....
Handle With Care (1958) a drama featuring Dean Jones as a struggling law student trying to collect evidence against a corrupt City Hall.....
High School Confidential (1958) Albert Zugsmith takes the lead as a cop who succeeds in busting the local teenage drug trade.....
It's In the Air (1935) Jack Benny and Una Merkel star together in a series of conman escapades.....
Knights of the Round Table (1953) The classic tale of King Arthur starring Robert Taylor, Ava Gardner, and Mel Ferrer ..
The Last Challenge (1967) Glen Fry starred in this western-drama as a gunfighter turned Marshall.....
Les Girls (1957) Gene Kelly starred as a man touring through Europe with three dancing girls.....
Live a little, Love a little (1968) Elvis Presley's 28th movie about singing idols of various generations
Money Talks (1926) Ned Sparks stars as the rum-running villain, thwarted by the gun toting Owen Moore
Of Human Hearts (1938) Walter Huston and James Stewart star as estranged father and son, with Beulah Bondi as the sacrificing mother.....
Period of Adjustment (1962) a bubbly comedy based on Tennessee Williams play, starring Jane Fonda, Anthony Franciosa and Jim Hutton.....
The Smart Set (1928) starring William Hines as a polo player thrown off the team and restored in time for the USA Great Britain match.....
Some Came Running (1958) Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin and Shirley MacLaine star as a returning GI, a gambler, and a good time girl.....
Take Me out to the Ball Game (1949) a baseball musical starring Frank Sinatra and Gene Kelly.....
Telling the World (1928) Starring William Haines and Polly Moran, he as a hard-up reporter, and she as his not so understanding landlady.....
"This" Wild Year (1956) a take-off on These Wild Years, starring James Cagney, Barbara Stanwyck, and Betty Lou Keim...
Three Little Words (1950) Red Skelton and Fred Astaire starred in this musical biography of songwriters
The 25th Hour (1966) a war movie starring Anthony Quinn, but lacking substance.....
2001: A Space Odyssey (1968) one of MGM's greatest science fiction movies.....
The Way We Were (1973) a touching drama starring Barbara Streisand and Robert Redford
Words and Music (1948) Mickey Rooney and Cyd Charisse were two of the many to take part in this charming musical

 I'm really glad we've gotten to know each other this year. Things really didn't work out right for the SPD but that's ok.
 You are my sweet person,
 you are one of the coolest person around here.
 I'm enjoyed your friendship very much

Senior Talent Show

"Who would've thought that Holy Names contained so much talent!" exclaimed Elaine Obando, '87. Some of that talent included "lip-synch" acts, singing, and dancing. Students from HNHS and other schools participated in the Senior Talent Show on March 21. It was a memorable show for everyone. Who could forget Prince and the Revolution, or the beautiful duet sung by Jackie Thompson and Kenyatta Hatton? The show was an entertainment success. Could it have been STARSEARCH at HNHS? Where was Ed McMahon?

SNEAK PREVIEWS

This Year's Starlets Become Next Year's Stars

And now MGM gives you a sneak preview of what is to come to HNH this fall. It is entitled The Year of the Stallion, featuring the up and coming Seniors, the class of 1987!

With their swearing in on May 27, 1986, Liz Gallagher and her council were ready to make the Senior year the best for the class of '87.

Where did the time go? It seemed like yesterday they were shy and confused Freshmen buying their books at Orientation. Are these the same people who claimed it would take them years to find their way around? Well, they were. It was not until they were dismissed at the last student body meeting, Thurs., June 5, 1986, that the Stallions realized that they were going to be Seniors. They had struggled, suffered, been tested (a lot), and finally survived.

They have made and accumulated some wonderful memories, and they look forward to many more memories in their Senior year. Their final year will be exciting and rewarding—first out of assembly and off-campus privileges every day, but it will be sad and scary—college plans and job applications. The alumnae and future graduates of HNH wish the class of 1986 the best of luck.

So here they are, the upcoming Seniors . . .

"What's that I see in the distance?" exclaims Talya Smallwood, '87, in her debut role as the Grinch in How the Grinch Stole Christmas, co-starring Lauri Wong, '86. Fatmata Kamara, '87, recites to Lillian Christensen, '87, Portia's speech: "The quality of mercy is not strained / It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven"

Future Senior Nancy Lucas, '87, receives some words of wisdom from two experienced members of the class of '86. Talya Smallwood, Stacey Ford, and Leslie Green, '87, hang out at the off-limits Senior tables before they star as Howie Newsome, George Gibb, and Emily Webb in Thornton Wilder's Our Town.

June 12, 1986. Let's celebrate! "We are Seniors, and we're definitely proud," shout Michelle Lun, Felicia Williams, April Wright, '87, and friends as they look forward to a fresh summer.

Home Before Dark

With the active life of the average high school student (maintaining a semi-active social life while doing a minimum of work), parents often got lost in the shuffle. Not at HNH! Mom and Dad each had an opportunity to bask in the spotlight.

The mother-Daughter Tea was an annual tradition eagerly anticipated by the Seniors. Held on Dec. 15, 1985, it was a welcome retreat from the hustle and bustle of the Christmas season, and an opportunity to Seniors to show their appreciation to Mother for all her support. With the Christmas tree flickering softly in the background, students introduced their moms to their friends. "I enjoyed talking to Andrea's friends' mothers," commented Mrs. Watson, Andrea Watson's, '86, mother.

For Dad, the scene differed slightly. Dad's Night Out With the Girls took place on May 3, 1986, in the HNH cafeteria. Music was provided by Entertainment Tonight, and ranged from The Mills Brothers to Prince. Decorations included records suspended from the ceiling and pastel paper around the pillars, adding to the ambiance of the evening. The highlight of the dance was the "twist" contest. Finalists included Christine Parodi, '86, Lauri Wong, '86, Tanya Brauer, '88, Leann Guillory, '88, Gewana Edgerly, '89, and their escorts. The winners, Gewana and her father, received luncheon for two at Krogans.

Kim Edwards, '86, expresses her appreciation to Mom and Dad for all their support. Pretty in pink, Mary Campbell, '86, and her guest pose for the traditional Mother-Daughter Tea pictures.

*Smiling their prettiest smiles, Arica Trotty, '86, and her mother pose for the photographer. Winners of the "twist" contest, Gewana Edgerly, '89, and her escort dance to Daddy's Home.

Dancing the night away, Leann Guillory, '88, and her father both enjoy Dad's Night Out.

Parent Involvement at HNH

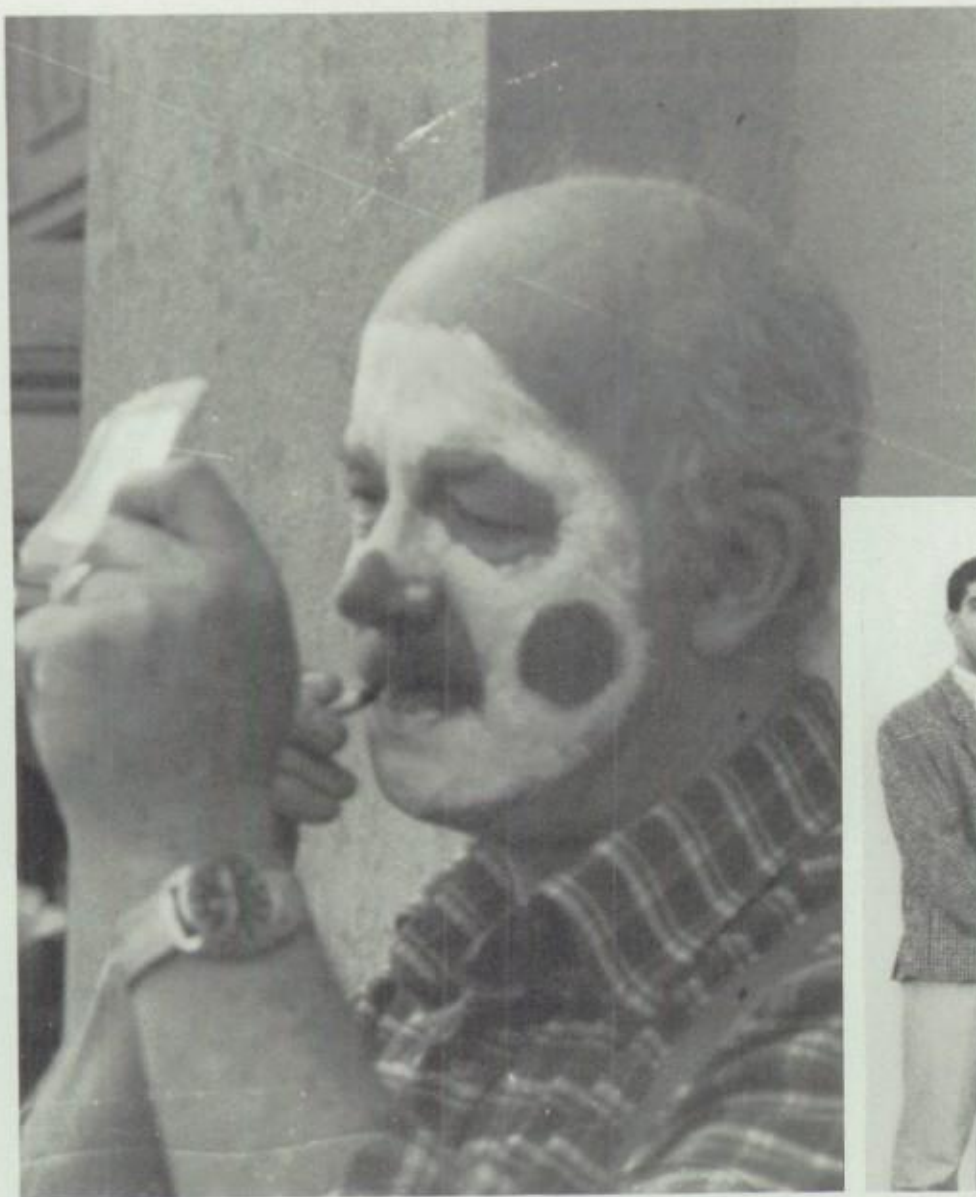

THIS MAD WORLD SPIRIT WEEK 1986

Dear Diary,

This week was spirit week. It was a blast. The theme was Expo HNH, like a World Expo. It started on Monday, and every class wore their class colors and showed off their class cheers and posters at the rally. On Tuesday, it was High Fashion Day. We all looked really vogue when the Spirit Week king candidates gave their speeches. The candidates were James Wallace, James Coriston, Alec Wyne, Paul Nessian, and Tim Doran. On Wednesday, the theme was "school daze". People got to show off their school paraphernalia from their grammar schools, their favorite college, or their boyfriends' schools. Thursday, we had an Expo of our own. Booths ranged from candy apple to win a gold fish, but the most famous was the "revenge booth." This was our perfect chance to get back at our "favorite" teachers by throwing a wet sponge at them. Friday, we got a chance to relax for the dance that night because it was slumber party day. The theme of the dance was At the Expo. and James Coriston was crowned king. It was a great ending to a great week!

Ida Lewis, '89, in her fair attire enjoys her ice cream. Julia Cabrera, '88, regretfully tells the photographer that there aren't any nachos left. Mr. Griffiths applies the finishing touches. The handsome homecoming king candidates, Paul Nissan, Tim Doran, Anthony Williams, James Wallace, James Coriston, and Alec Wynne. Sabrina Finney, '86 is contemplating whether she should splurge and get a balloon. Catherine Sugg and Mary Quinn, '89, show their spirit on "School Daze" day.

Shelley Stewart, '86, poses for photographers. Stacey Dugan, '87, and her date appear to be having fun. Jackie Deschaine, '86, pins her date's boutonniere to his lapel. Shunda Kittling, '87, seems to be lost in a dream.

Lovely To Look At

One advantage of being an upper-classman was being able to experience some of those memorable high school events that left cherished thoughts for years to come.

The highlight of the Junior year was, without a doubt, the infamous Prom - an anxiously anticipated night for many: the right dress, the stretch limo, and oh yes, the perfect date. The wishing and waiting ended on May 9th atop the Kaiser Center at The Lakeview Club. As the couples danced, they enjoyed the spectacular views of Oakland and San Francisco. This special night's theme, "A Night Of Elegance", was carried off very gallantly, and for many it proved to be a dream come true, a night to be long embedded in the memories of some. Mary Beth Campbell, '87, commented, "It was unlike anything that I'd been to before".

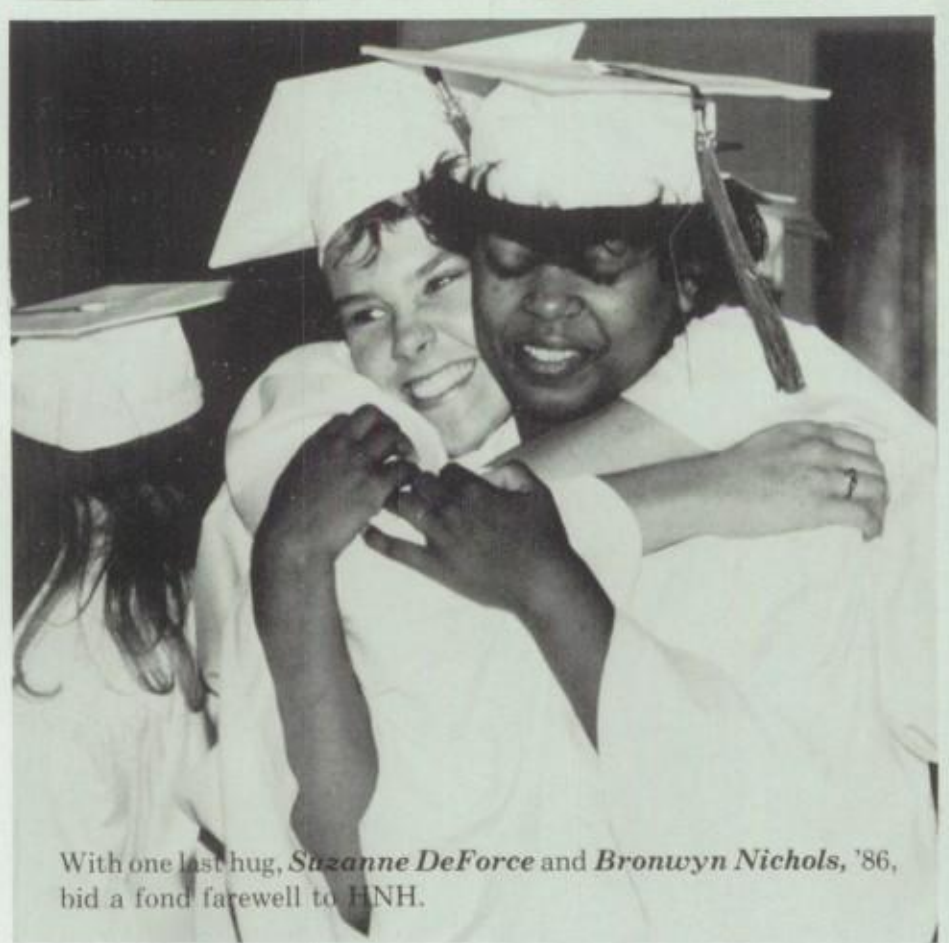

Perhaps prized even more highly than the Prom was the Senior Ball-the last dance for the Seniors. Held across the bay in one of the country's most romantic cities, San Francisco, it lived up to its theme, "If Only For One Night". Since this ball was a special occasion, Seniors scrambled to shop for that eye-catching gown and that gorgeous guy. Eventually that fateful day of May 25th arrived, as did the couples-in limos, cars, and other imaginative ways for those who wanted to make a grand entrance at the Sir Francis Drake Hotel. Dancing until the early morning hours, they made a grand exit; their sendoff before graduation.

Nadine Valero, '87, and her date are caught by the photographer, cuddling quietly in a cozy corner. All decked out and ready for a night on the town, a smile describes Trenise Reed's, '87, time at the Prom.

GONE WITH THE WIND

Celebrant Father Leo Edgerly blesses the gift brought up by Shawn Dawson, '86. Along with the congregation, Dolores Ferrero, Alyx Pitts, and Lawana Johnson, '86, join hands for the "Our Father". That's what friends are for, sings the graduating class of 1986 in perfect harmony. Someone's feet hurt already?! The soon-to-be graduates prepare for their grand entrance.

With one last hug, Suzanne DeForce and Bronwyn Nichols, '86, bid a fond farewell to HNH.

Together for the last time

After months of anticipation and weeks of practice, the day each Senior longed for had arrived at last. As we stood, ready to proceed into the Scottish Rite Temple Auditorium, memories of the time we spent at HNH flashed through our minds. The most recent memory was of the evening before, the baccalaureate mass. Held at St. Theresa's Church on June 11, 1986, the mass was our final celebration as the class of 1986, and an opportunity for family and friends to join us in celebrating our past, our present, and our future.

But suddenly, we were jolted out of our recollections and into the present. Caps were quickly adjusted, and the procession began. All in our places, all eyes upon us, we began to sing our song, That's What Friends are For. The rest of the evening was but a blur. It was well worth the practice we'd put forth, for the ceremony went on without a hitch. Speakers Priscilla Scotlan, '64, and Joanne McKenna, '86, reminded us that this was not the end, but only the beginning.

"Oh my God—this is it!!!" we thought as one by one we stood to receive our diplomas. Back in our seats, we the graduates turned our tassels, sang our Alma Mater, and began the recession, leaving everyone with the feeling that the best was yet to come!

The Last Hour

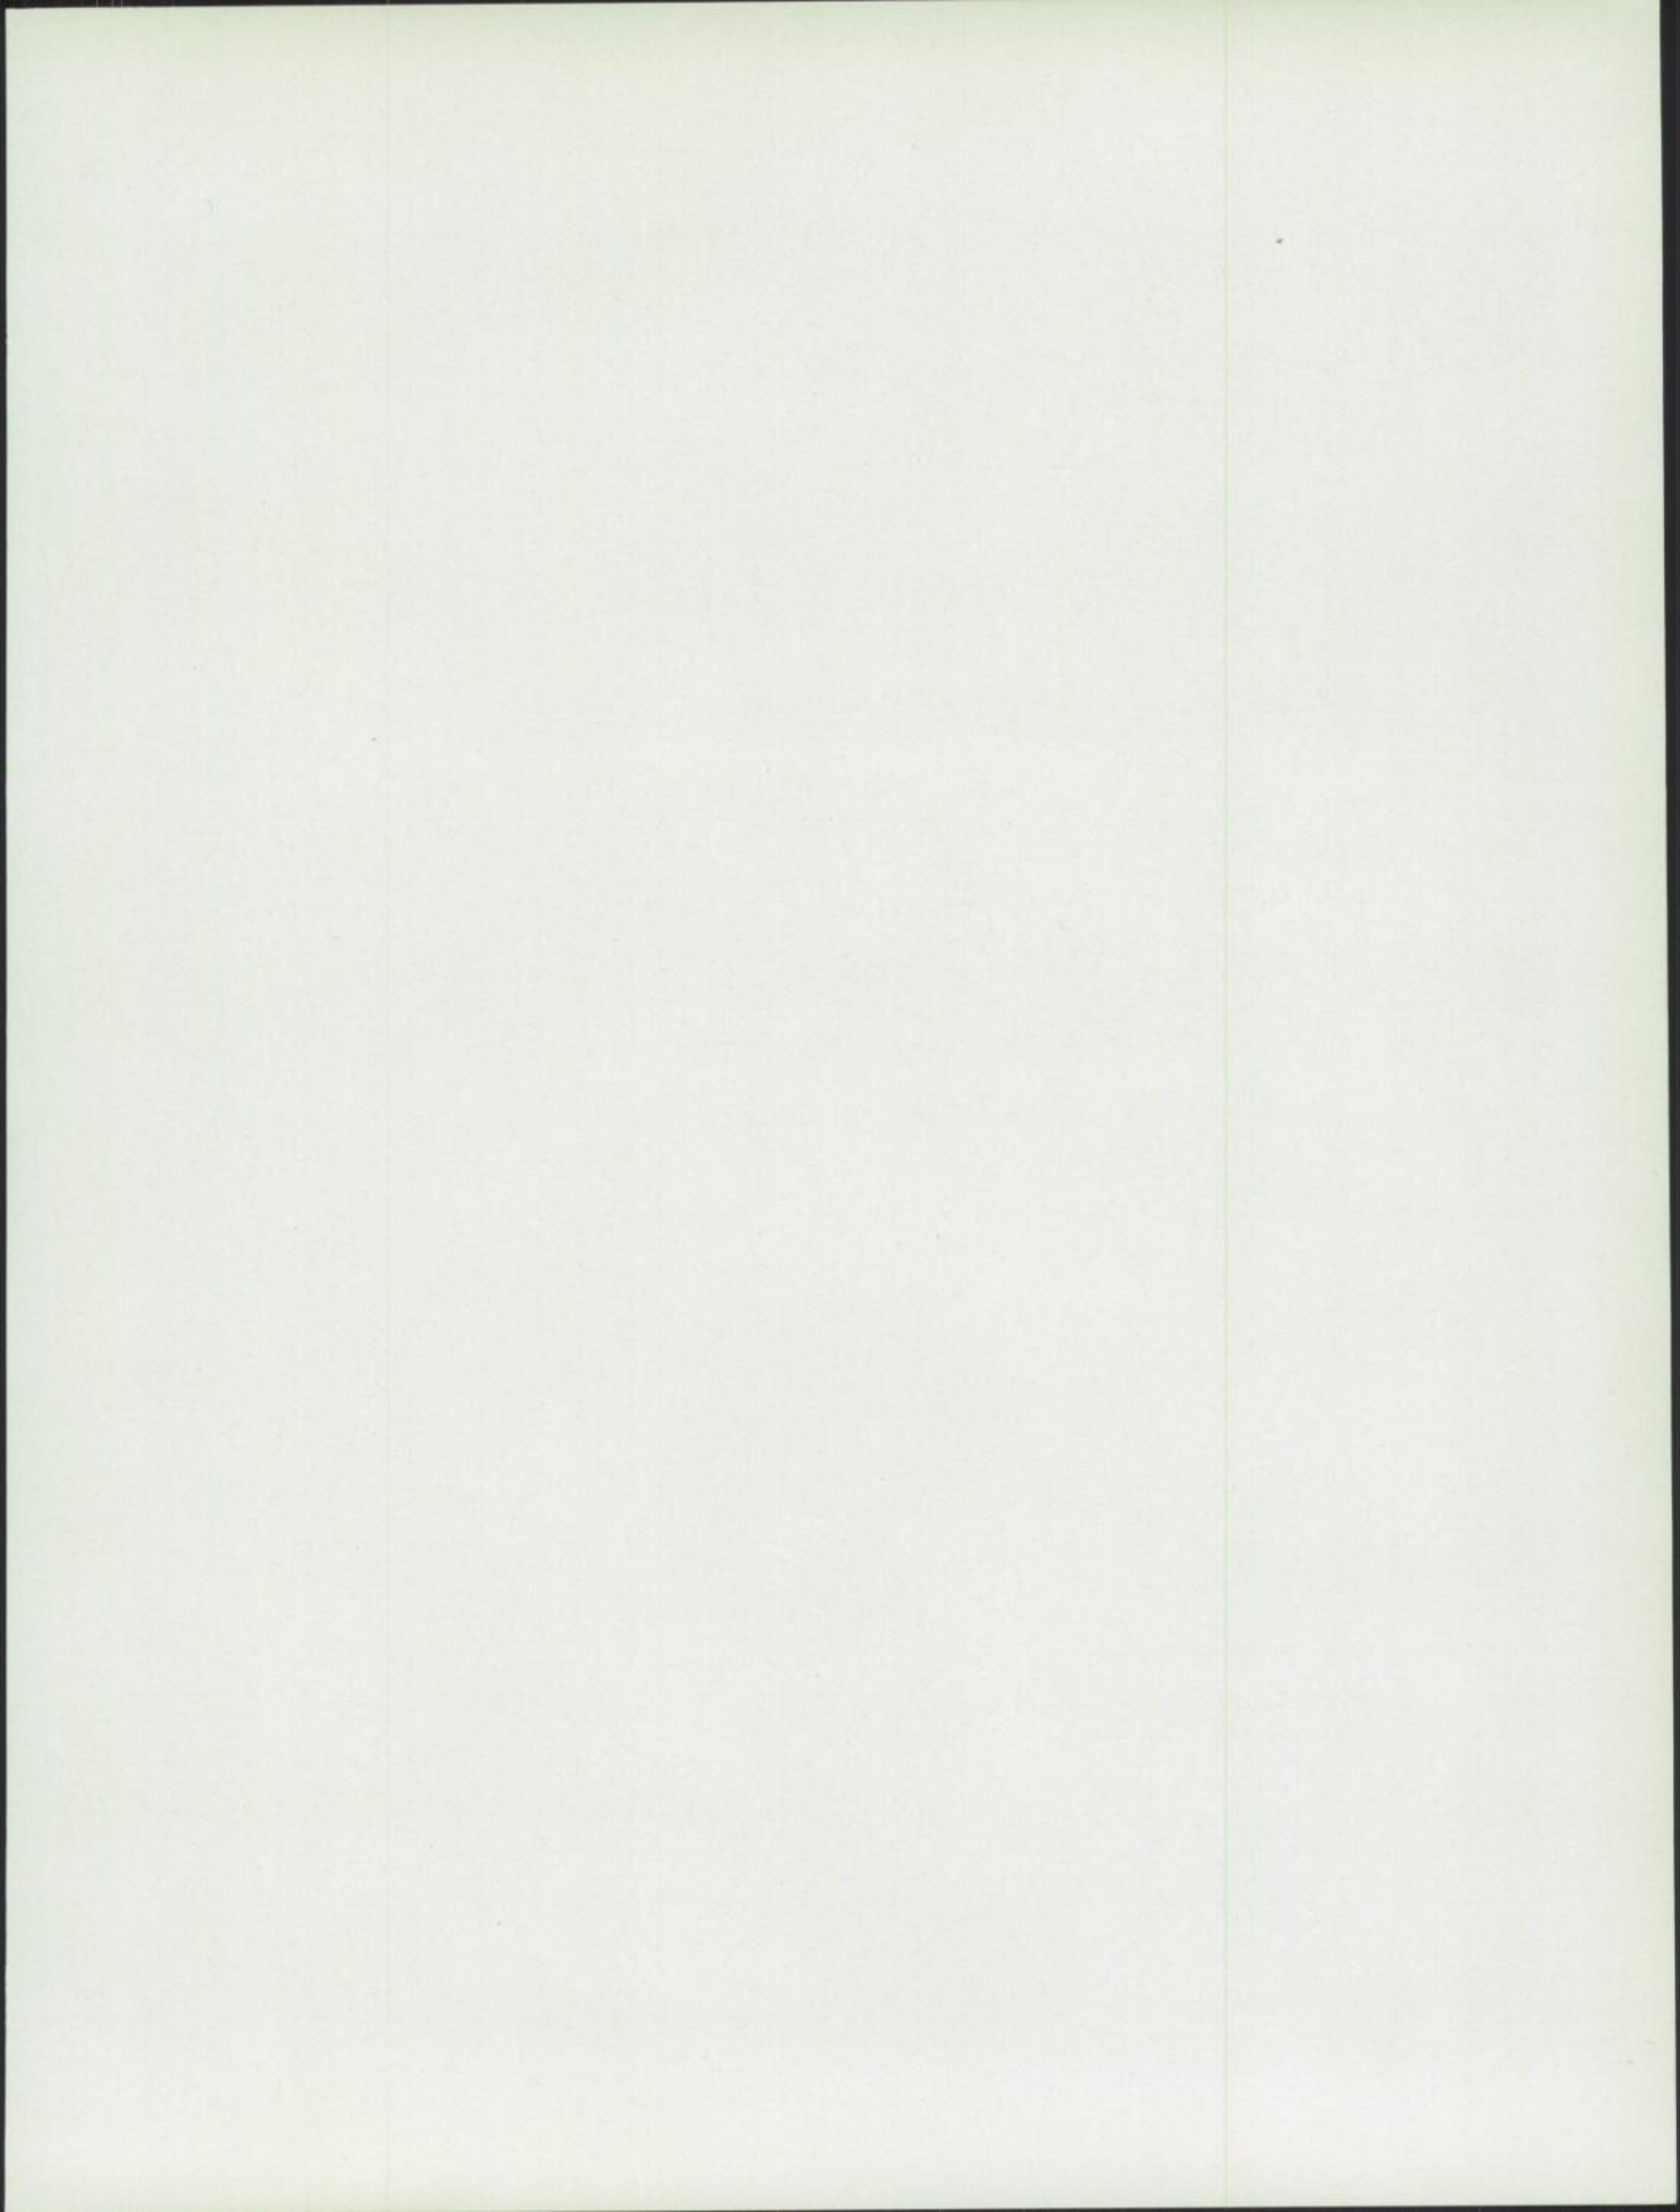

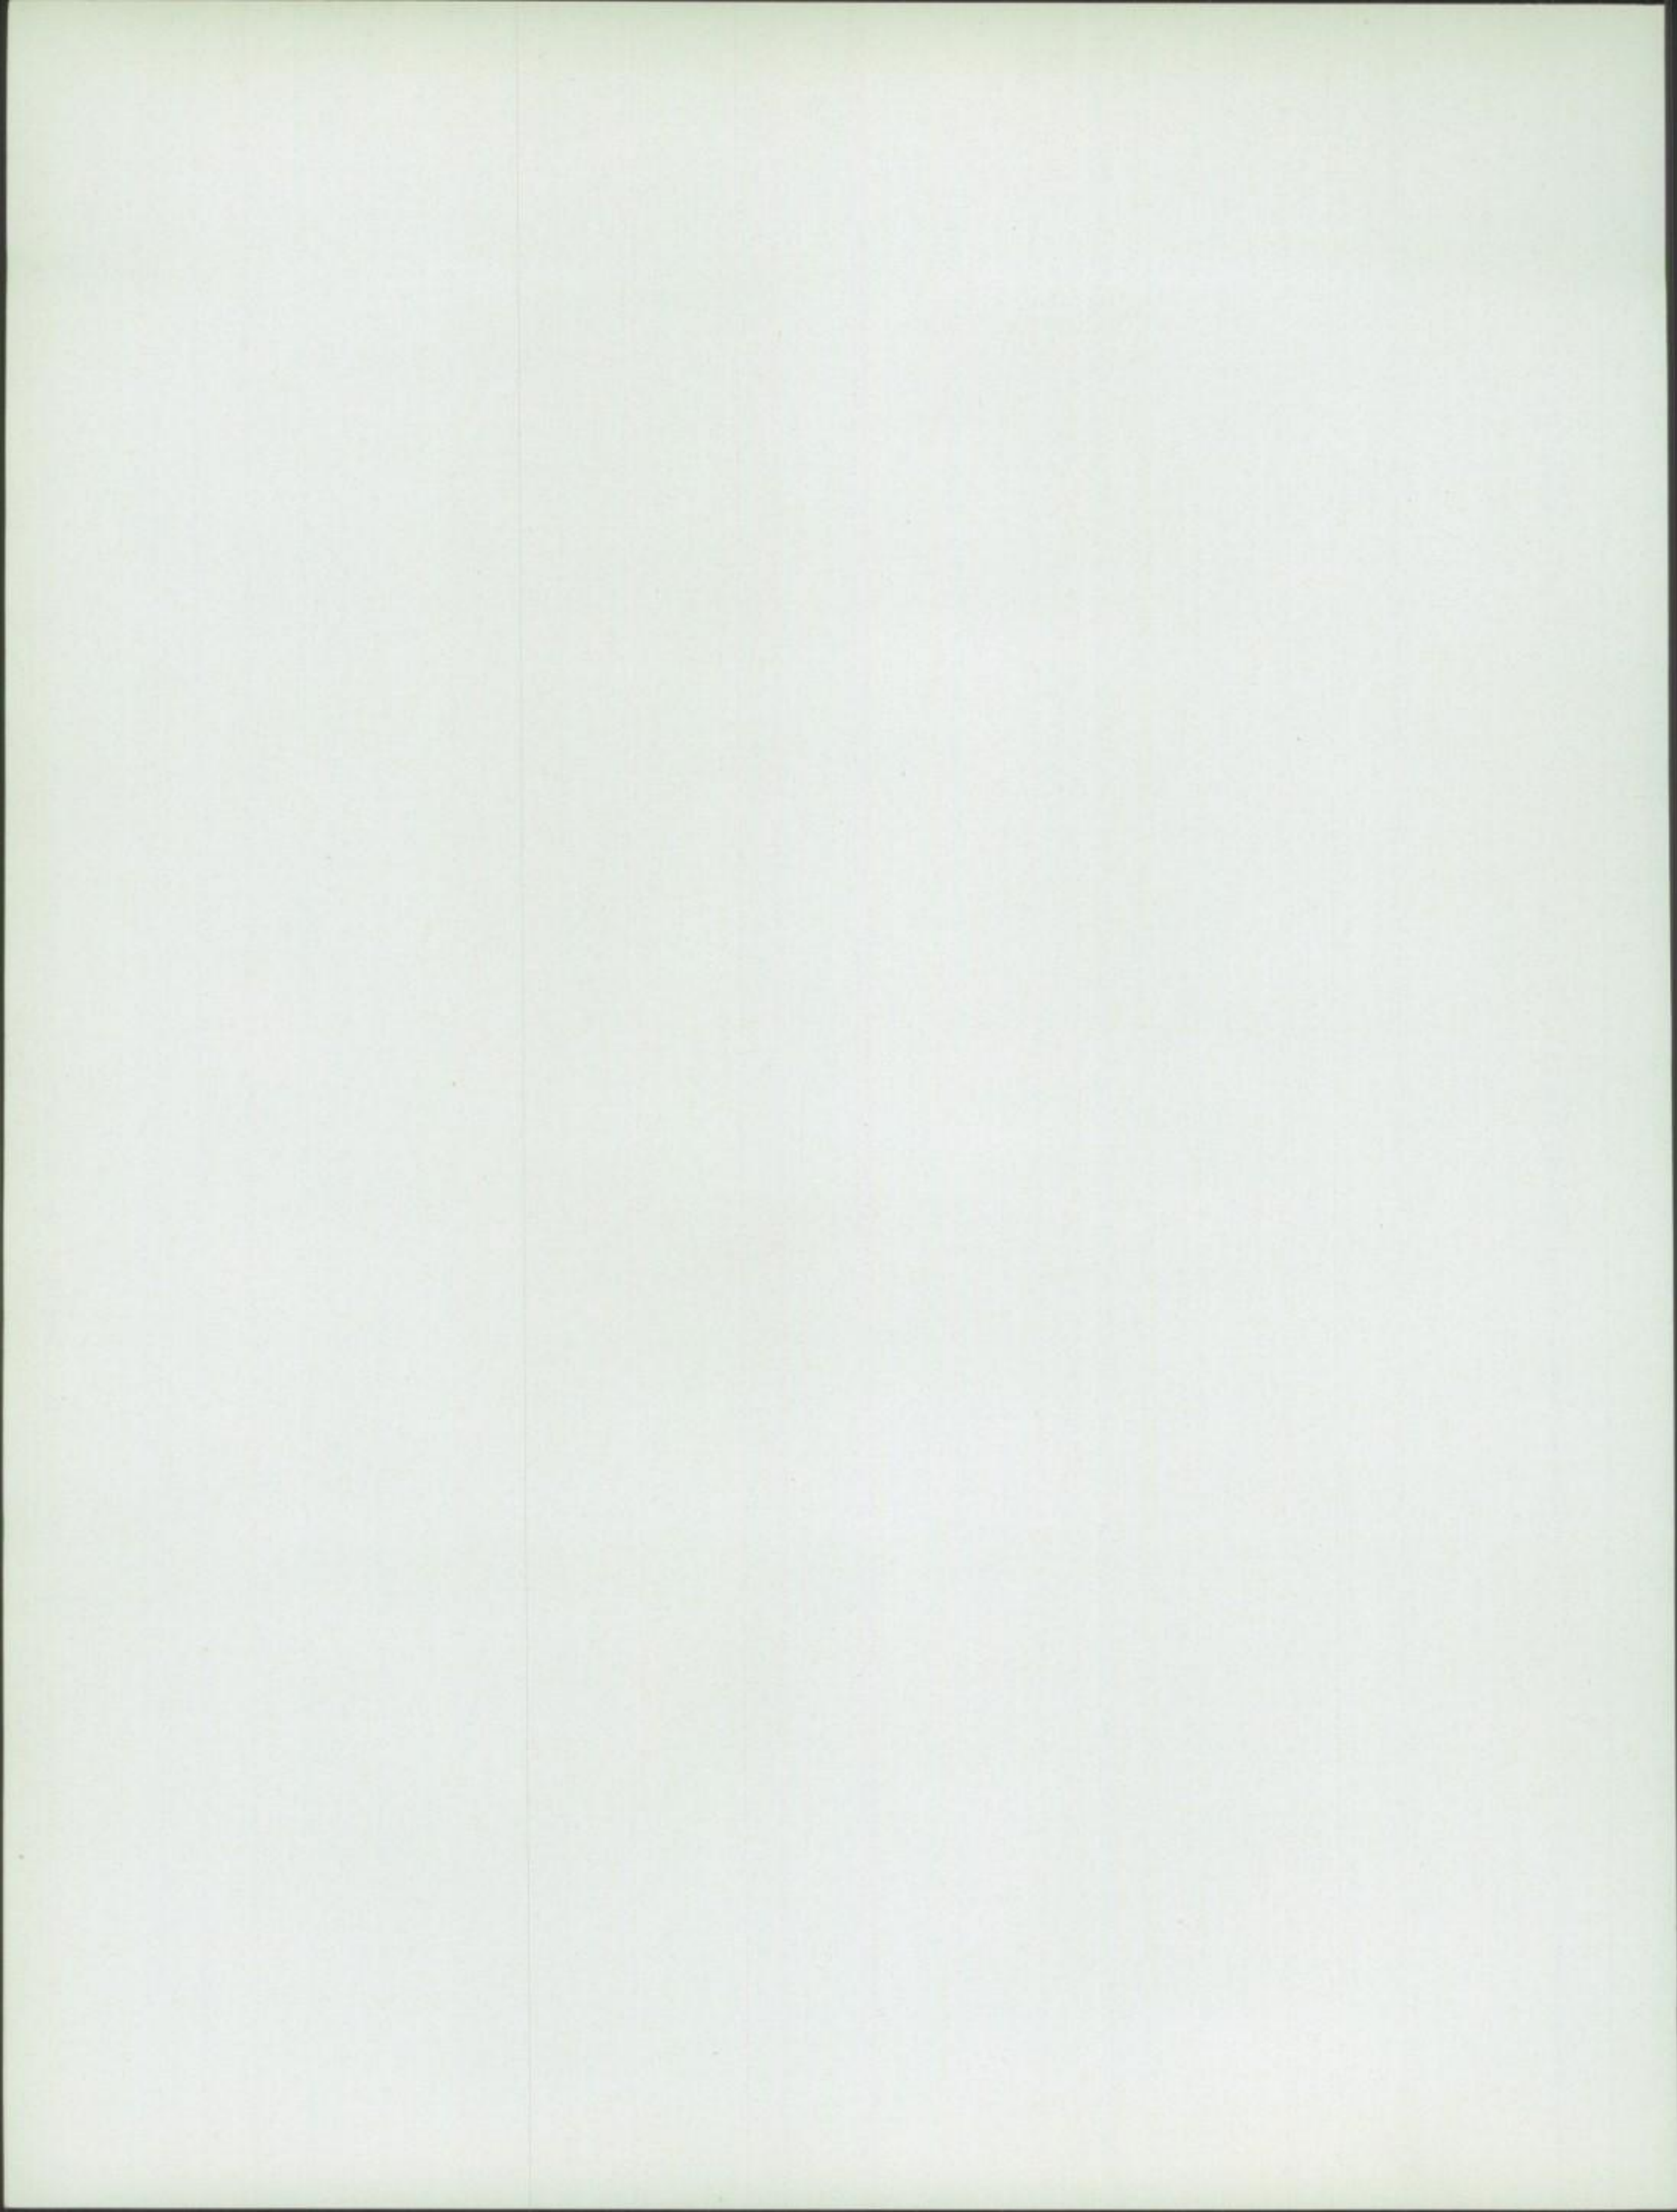

Silence and tension hovered over the halls of HNHS. "Oh no! I don't think I can survive another one!" screamed a student. Chemical formulas and geometric theorems filled the dreams of some, while others imagined themselves being held captive by French and Spanish verbs demanding conjugation. This disastrous event that was the cause of gray hairs was called "finals." In the midst of sunny weather, students had a hard time concentrating on writing essays and solving unsolvable equations. For the teachers, it was a last chance to torture and appropriately say goodbye to their pupils before sending them off to have fun in the sun. The only homework would be to acquire the perfect tan and to find that summer love.

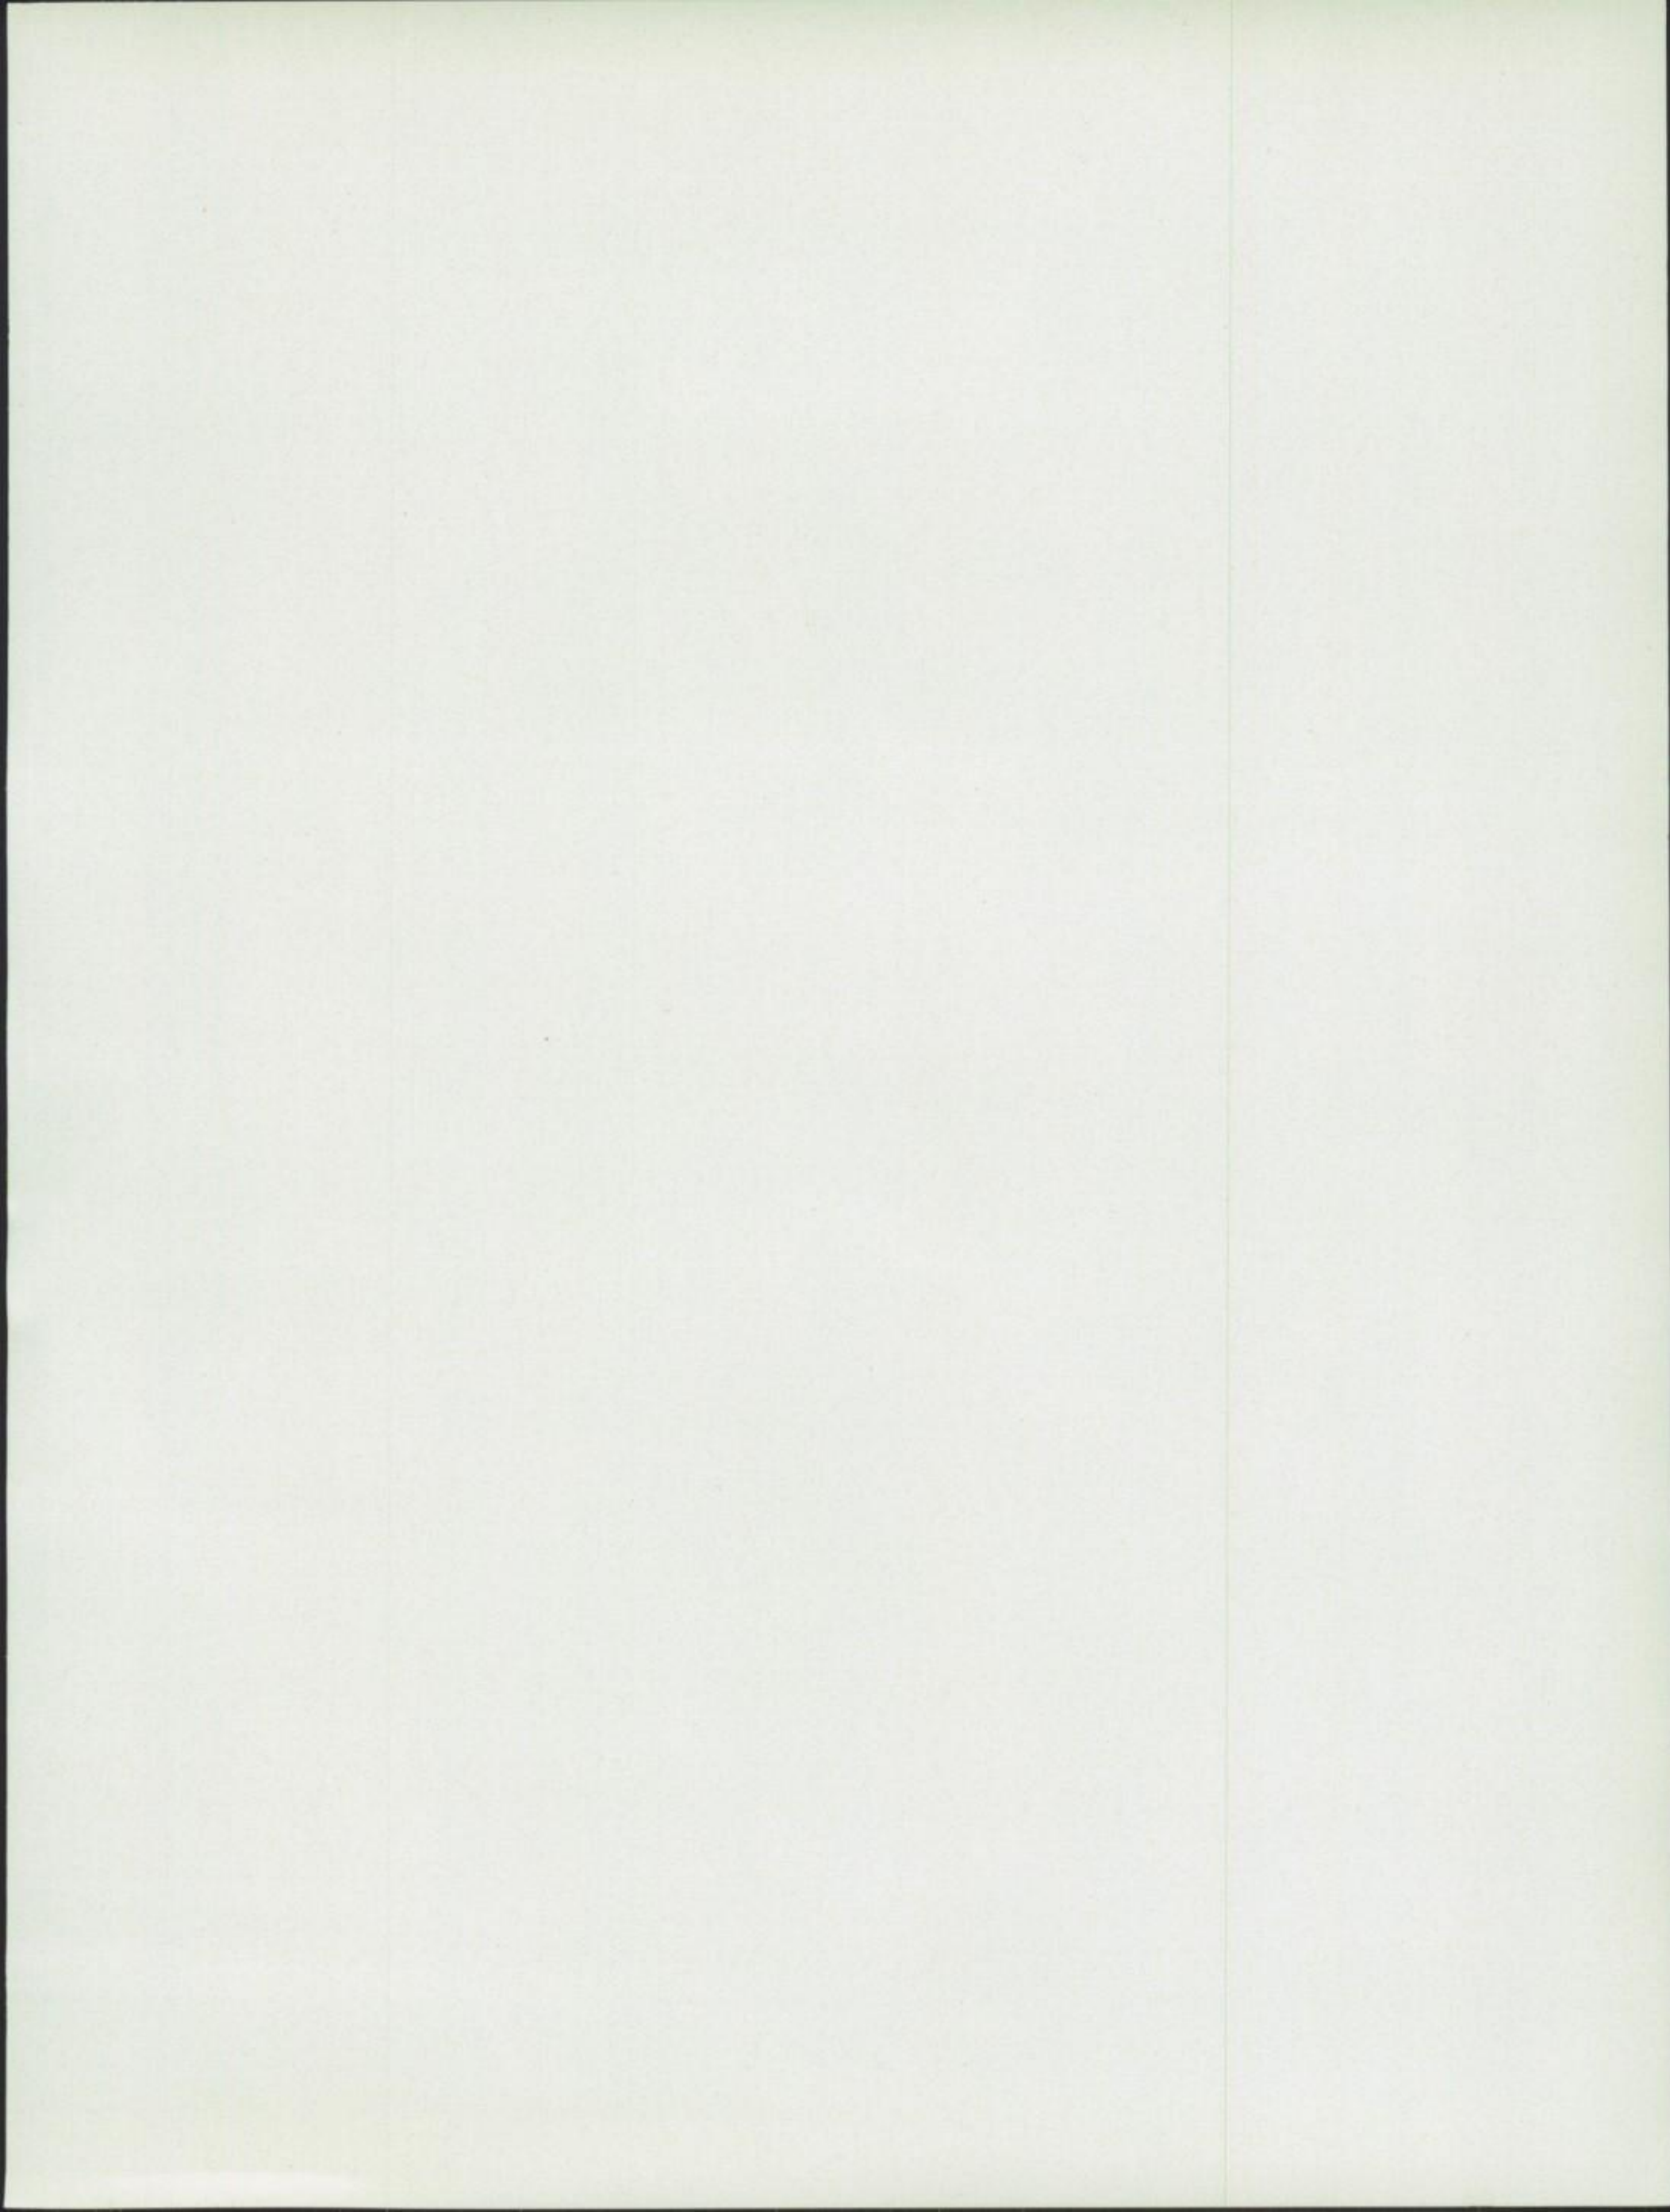

Catherine Sugg, '89, reclines in exhaustion after cramming for her Global Studies finals. Laurie Wong, '86, the adorable Monarch mascot says, "Hey! Check it out." Meanwhile "soon to be juniors", Erica Morgan, Monique Barnes and Cecily Allman express their joy now that summer is finally here!

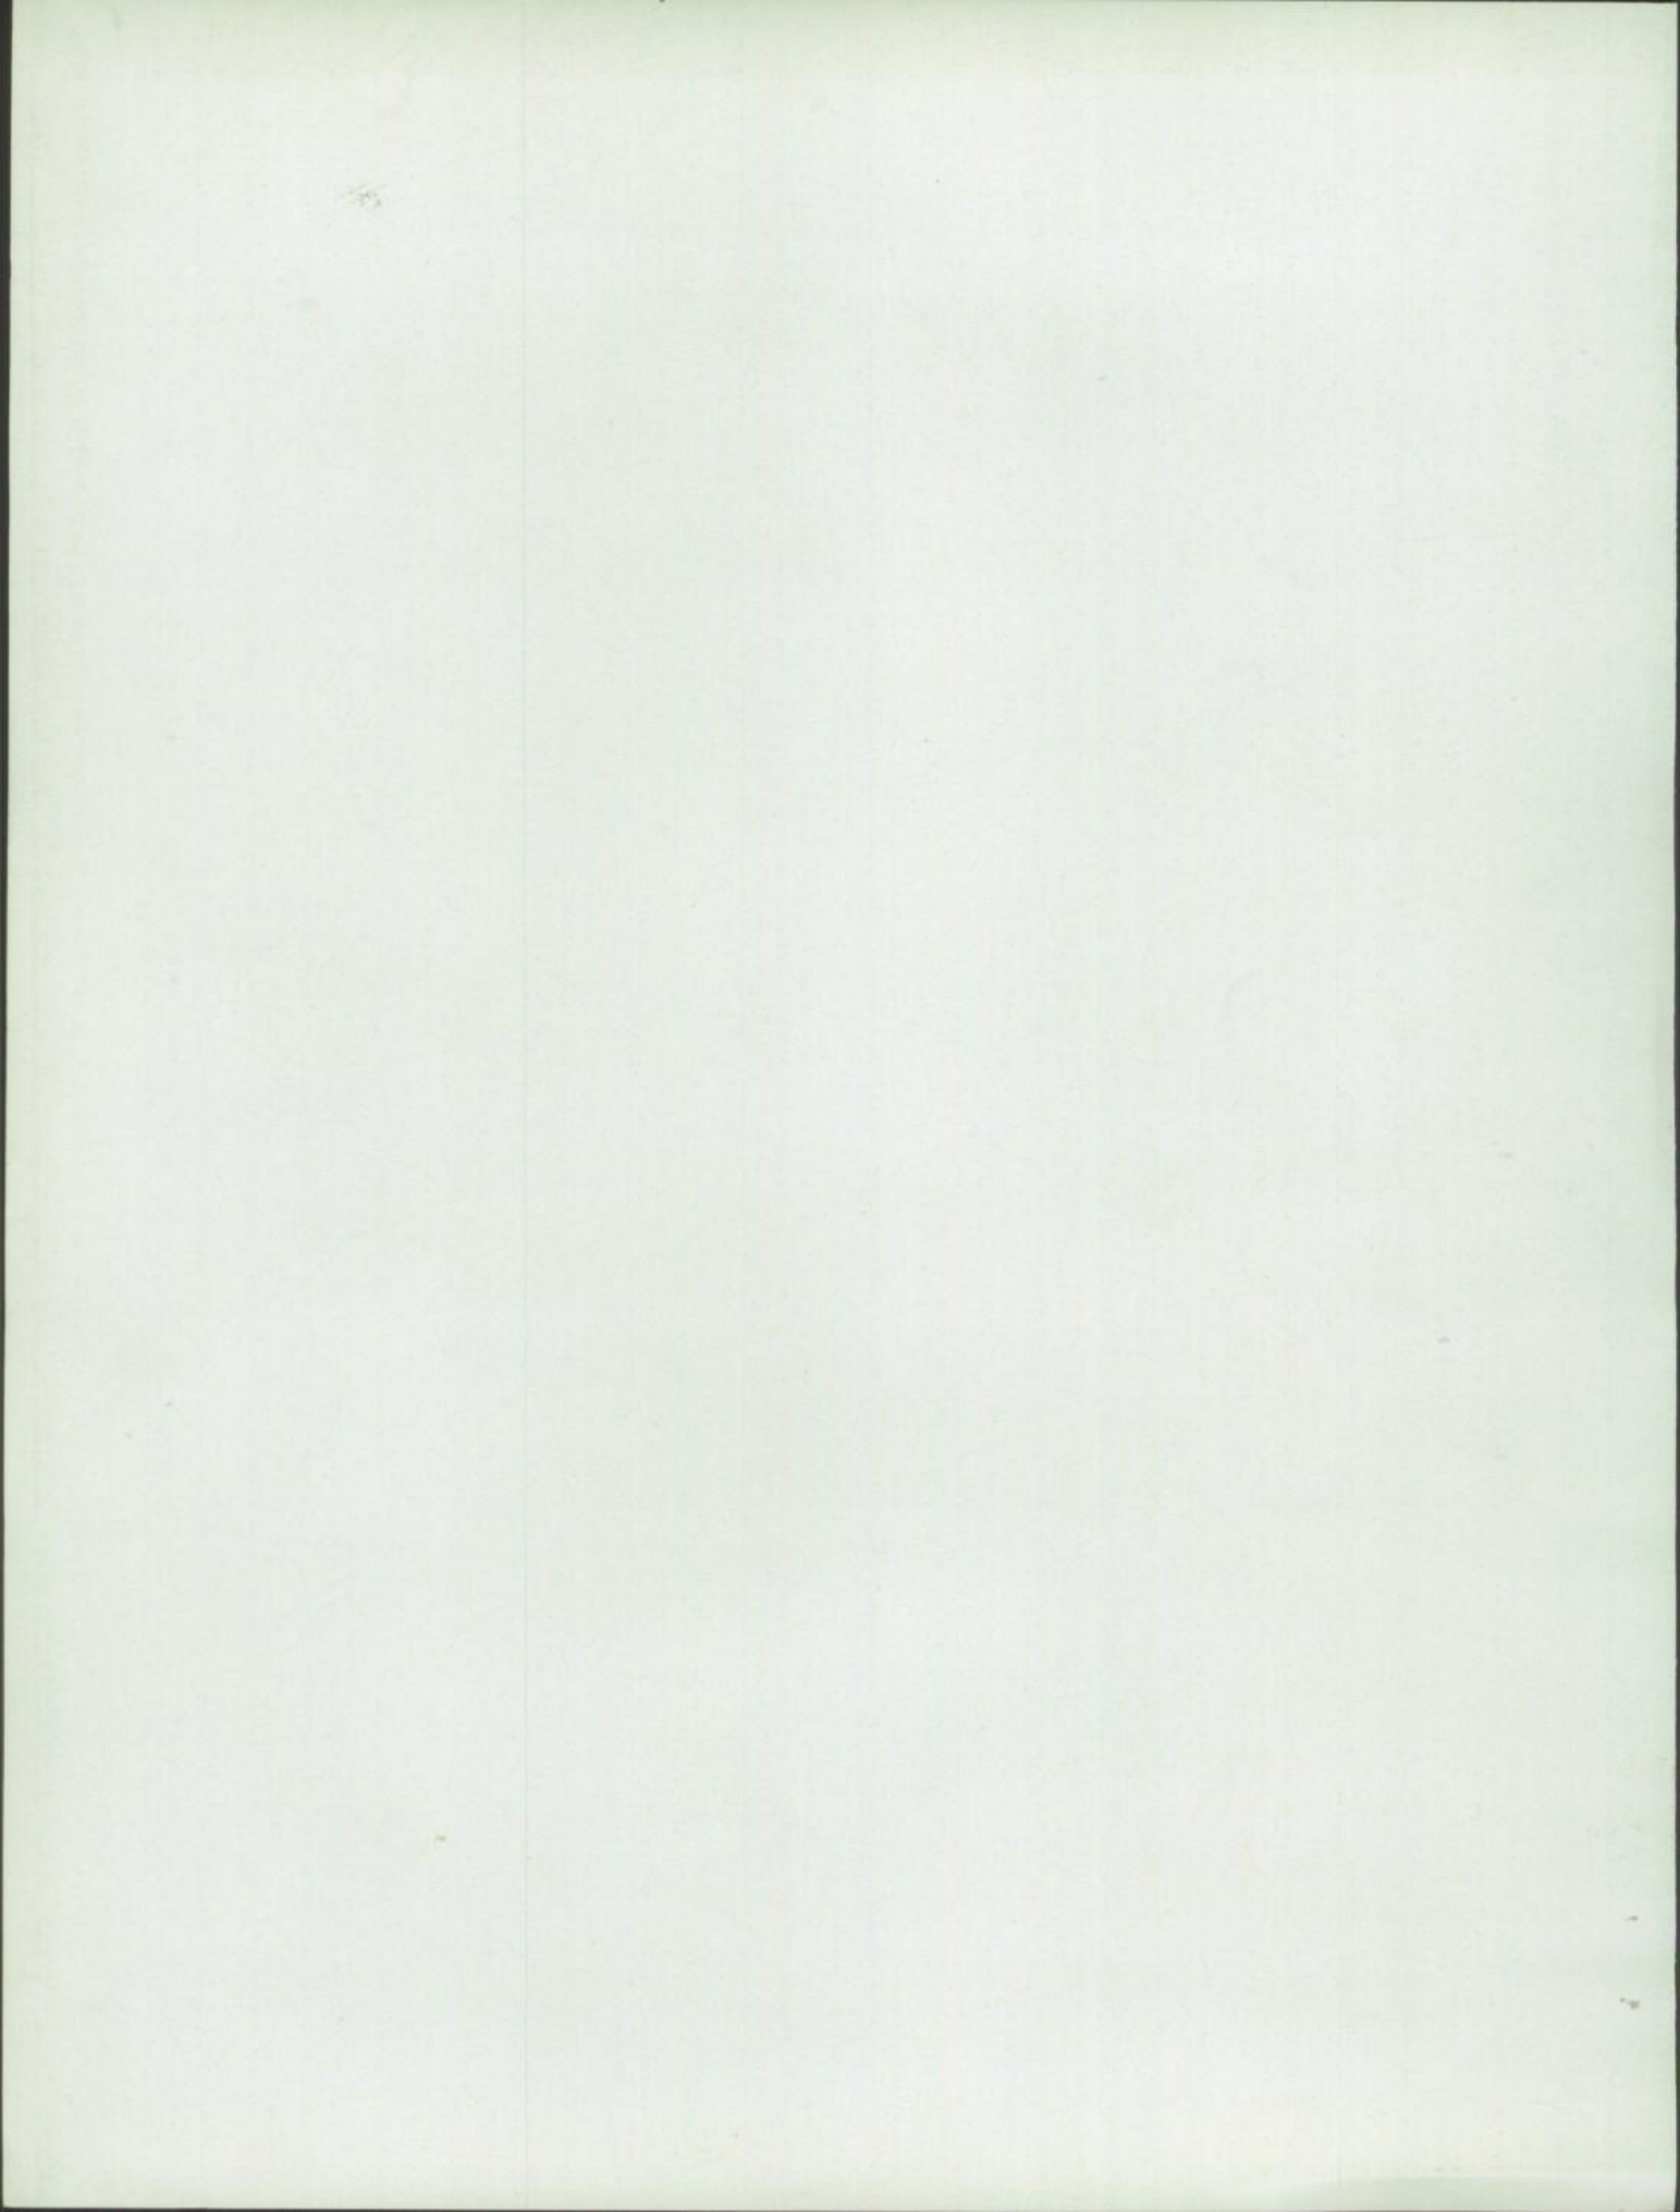

The End

Stasek,
What's up hammer?
It's finally here, we outta here, we know we won't touch of each other because down in hit. Together I'm glad I got to know you cause you're hella sweet and a dear friend. You're in

To Stacy,

It's been great knowing you these four years
I'm glad you came back and I'm glad we'll be graduating together. If we can survive
Chemistry we can survive anything Must love and success in your future
